Gunships Killed Fleeing My Lai Villagers, Court Told

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A former helicopter gunship pilot has testified in the court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutto that 35 to 40 persons were killed by gunship fire on a trail near My Lai.

Brvan Livingston of Killeen, Tex., now an investments counselor, was the second person to testify Tuesday that persons fleeing the hamlet were fired on by the gunships.

Inspection Of Hot Dogs Called Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has quietly dropped a year-old plan for testing the fat content of supermarket hot dogs to see if manufacturers are meeting standards favored by the White House.

But department officials say the fat limit of 30 per cent in force since October 1969 is being observed scrupulously by most manufacturers without the threat of enforcement.

The sole basis for this conclusion is the department's old system of sampling cooked sausages in plants to see if makers are abiding by the federal fat limit.

Last year the Consumer and Marketing Service said a plan was under consideration for purchasing hot dogs at retail stores to see how those samples stacked up against routine inspections made in meat plants.

Asked by a reporter whether the plan is still under consideration, officials said it has been shelved and there are no plans to revive it.

Dr. Edward A. Murphy, in charge of standards for the marketing service, said the market sampling plan was canceled mainly because it was too cumbersome and because laboratory facilities were not adequate.

Pastor Wins Capital Primary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Walter E. Fauntroy, who campaigned as a friend of the late Dr. Martin Luther King and an enemy of political compromise, has won the Democratic nomination for the District of Columbia's first non-voting delegate to the House of Representatives in 100 years.

John A. Nevius, the only white running for the post, was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

The two men will meet in the general election March 23.

Woman Shot to Death At Mauston, 2 Injured

MAUSTON (AP) — A Mauston woman was shot to death and her daughter and son-in-law were critically wounded Tuesday in a shooting incident at the couple's home, authorities said.

The dead woman was identified as Sidley Nelson and the critically wounded couple as Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thompson.

Authorities declined comment on the circumstances surrounding the incident.

Teens' Cigarette Smoking Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — While is substantial evidence support more and more of their elders giving up smoking over the past two years, teen-agers took up the cigarette habit in increasing numbers, according to the U.S. surgeon general.

Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld, noting while reacting by accusing increases in new teen-age smokers are greatest at the ages of 13, 14 and 15, said Monday: "This is a very sad situation, in which the connection between mothers who smoke and infant mortality."

He urged girls and women be impressed with tobacco's effects associated with excess fetal on pregnancy and that smoking mortality on the incidence of be forbidden in some public places.

"It is high time to ban smoking for all confined public places such as restaurants, theaters, airplanes, trains and buses."

"Nonmokers have as much right to clean and wholesome air as smokers have to their so-called right to smoke," he said. "I over the past several years also would redefine a right to pollute," he said.

In a preview of a new report cause of lung cancer in men, he to Congress, Steinfeld said there said.

He said the gunships were supporting U.S. troops making an infantry assault on My Lai. Hutto, charged with assault with intent to murder at least six civilians during the action, was a machine gunner in the 2nd Platoon of Charley Company at My Lai.

Bob Hope Awarded Top Navy Honor

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — "Words can never capture the magnanimity of spirit that has earned you this and every plaud America has to give."

The words in a telegram from President Nixon were read Tuesday as Bob Hope, comedian and cheer-taker to servicemen abroad, was given the Navy's highest honor for a civilian.

As Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee pinned on the Distinguished Service Medal, Hope quipped in a reference to paying income taxes:

"I can't tell you what it means to get this piece of gold back from the government."

Chafee got a laugh from the comedian when he noted Hope was appearing before many sailors whose fathers had been entertained during World War II "and probably still telling the same jokes."

Rest Stop for Communists Sanctuary in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military analysts say Communists are trying to convert two Cambodian provinces into sanctuaries for training and resting their soldiers.

The provinces are mountainous Pursat and Battam Bang, a major rice-producing area, which lie along Thailand's border far to the west of the old Communist sanctuaries invaded last spring by U.S. and allied forces from South Vietnam.

Communist control of this area, according to analysts, could result in serious food shortages in Cambodia and in the already troubled by enemy insurgency in its northeastern provinces, and North Vietnamese advances in northern Laos.

Highway 5 U.S. officials fear the enemy may close off Highway 5, the main route between the capital, Phnom Penh and Battam Bang.

The enemy's dry season campaign, say U.S. intelligence experts, will focus on buttressing control in Stung Trang and Kratie provinces, through which the vital Mekong River supply route passes from southern Laos.

A Communist objective in southern Laos, at the same time, will be assuring control of the eastern part of the Bolovens Plateau, and adjoining areas, through which the Se Kong River flows. This, too, is a major link in the enemy supply route from North Vietnam.

Enemy successes along Highway 4 have demonstrated what they can achieve with minimum forces, say analysts. The Cambodian army, despite an infusion of American arms and bolstering by South Vietnamese veterans, still is rated far below the battle-seasoned North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Legislature to Study Product Liability Limit

MADISON — A full scale legislative reconsideration of the length of time that liability should extend to manufacturers and sellers of defective products is being prepared.

The joint Legislative Council has endorsed the proposal for consideration of the new session of the legislature, at the suggestion of the Wisconsin State Supreme Court.

The court in a recent case held that the state statute of limitations begins to run at the time of injury in an action based upon strict products liability or an action based upon negligent manufacture.

But the tribunal evidently felt that the rule is not necessarily a wise or fair one, for it expressly suggested that the legislature may find it wise to review the problems that the interpretation may pose upon manufacturers and vendors.

The court suggested that the lawmakers review the matter comprehensively and consider a time limit for liability that would "balance the equities and determine the question of public policy."

The Legislative Council recommendation for a thorough study of the law and the possibilities for modifying it, posed a dilemma. Restricted statutes of limitations may leave an injured party without a remedy, it was noted. But having an indefinite time limit on actions may create hardships for manufacturers and sellers of products, the council added.

The Post-Crescent A 11
Wednesday, January 13, 1971

The legislative leadership group recommended that the study group to be chosen report its conclusions and recommendations to the regular sessions of the legislature starting in January. Meanwhile the strict products liability rule enunciated by the state court, permitting any injured person to start action at the time of injury, will remain the law of the state.

Warehouse Ablaze at Greenville

Damage in the hundreds of thousands of dollars resulted Tuesday afternoon in a blaze at the Berg and Henn Co. warehouse in the Town of Greenville. At right, firemen — who responded from Greenville, Hortonville and Grand Chute— battle the blaze. The twisted girder is the remains of a radio dispatch antenna. DNR Clears Appleton for Park Grants

The State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has cleared the way for Appleton to apply for state and federal funds for local park development.

Ralph Gertsch, Appleton parks and recreation chairman, today announced DNR approval of the city's comprehensive park development plan.

The plan had to be approved by the state agency before the city could seek aid funds for carrying out portions of the plan.

Gertsch said that the first project the city will request aid for is development of a marina at Bellaire Park, a $70,000 project. The Peabody Trust Fund, established from a private estate for development of Bellaire Park, will provide half the total. The city will ask for the other half from the state-administered Land and Water Conservation Act (LAWCON) open space program.

Bellaire plans call for a fishing pier, boat launching ramp small boat slips and a parking area on a man-made peninsula to be built off the park's present shoreline at the intersection of Green Bay and Leminwah streets.

Gertsch said the new facility would provide boating opportunities on the Fox River below the city's set of four locks. At present, he pointed out, the only public launching site in the city is at Lutz Park, upstream from the locks.

The comprehensive park plan approved by DNR was prepared by Harland Bartholomew & Associates, a St. Louis planning firm.

It includes plans for expansion and improvement of the city's park and recreation facilities for the next 15 years.

Another major project is the development of the 106-acre Langedyke Park and school site. The city has budgeted $25,000 in hopes of receiving $75,000 in state and federal aid. The aid applications are being channelled through Northeast Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, which submitted the park plan just approved by the DNR.

Sign Ordinance For City Wins Committee Okay

A sign ordinance proposal one couldn't see the signs as which its designers said had been in the making for years' personal opinions. No billboards were only was approved Tuesday night by the City Council Welfare and Ordinance Committee and will be recommended for final adoption by the council.

The proposed ordinance would restrict the size, location and erection of certain signs in the city and be 100 per cent in force at the end of a seven-year period during which existing signs must be made to conform.

"We feel it's a great step forward," said W. A. Close, chairman of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce special sign committee. "We feel it is very, very workable."

He said the goal was not to make Appleton more appealing to all who come here.

William Sands, of Northern State Bank, said that the ordinance should be tried just on College Avenue. He complained that the group was giving downtown Appleton preferential treatment and said that he didn't think the current sign limitations were creating an ugly condition.

He said it would be expensive, but he is represented on the petition by the signature of Mayor George Buckley.

City Atty. David Geenen, who has directed the annexation effort and did much of the leg work in collecting signatures, chamber, supposedly an organization to promote business, was more than half the residents and "trying to promote something owners of more than half the that will cost the businessman property in the area."

As a result, he said, he is confident the annexation will go through.

The petition goes next to the City Council for acceptance. It followed by adoption of an ordinance covering part of the city would be unworkable.

The proposal actually is an amendment to the current sign ordinance, but the committee's action necessarily was to recommend repealing the existing one and replacing it with the proposed one.

Ald. Edward Maloney (9th), ordinance committee chairman, said he could not see the aesthetic advantage of the new ordinance but was willing to accept the word of the chamber committee based on its years of work. He noted also that he was surprised at the minimal opposition that had been expressed, saying he understood the objection to the business expense.

"I think this thing has been hashed around enough," he added.

Petition Asks Annexation in Grand Chute

A petition bearing 68 signatures was filed Tuesday at City Hall, asking annexation to Appleton for some 200 acres from the Town of Grand Chute.

The city owns about 69.5 acres in the Northeast Industrial area, and is represented on the petition by the signature of Mayor George Buckley.

City Atty. David Geenen, who has directed the annexation effort and did much of the leg work in collecting signatures, chamber, supposedly an organization to promote business, was more than half the residents and "trying to promote something owners of more than half the that will cost the businessman property in the area."

Tavern 'Shot' By Tire Stud

STOCKBRIDGE — Calumet County Sheriff's Department investigated what was reported as a shot through the window at the Gobbler's Knob tavern about 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Upon investigation of the object which caused the hole in the large window, police found it to be a tire stud, which apparently worked itself loose when a car spun its tires turning the corner.

More Parish Aid

Xavier Board Increases Tuition for 1971 School Year

A tuition increase, based on the number of children in a family attending Xavier, was approved for the 1971 school year Tuesday by the Xavier High School Board.

The resolution also includes an increase of $25 in the amount paid by each parish for each parish child attending Xavier. That amount went from $100 to $125, and is subject to the approval of parish boards.

The increase to families, the first in two years, is as follows:

—Family with one child at Xavier, $410, $100 more than now.

—Family with two children at Xavier, $360 for each, a hike of $50 for each.

—Family with three children at Xavier, $310 for each, the same as now.

The fourth child at Xavier may attend free.

The Rev. Emmet Weber, superintendent, informed the board that the tuition paid by the parents now doesn't cover expenses since the per pupil cost is $530. Next year, he said, the preliminary cost estimate is $555, which, though higher, is about $200 below the state per pupil cost.

This, he pointed out, is based on grades K-12. For high school alone, he estimates a $900 per student cost for students attending public schools.

The board also approved a dress code, which appears to have only minor changes from the one currently on the books.

The big change, it seems, will be in the enforcement. The teachers admitted that they had been lax in this.

The board, accepted the dress code suggested by the students with modifications suggested by the parents, faculty and administration.

All of the groups had been given an opportunity to express their views in a recent survey.

Basically, the new code calls for a uniform for girls, consisting of a navy blue blazer and pleated skirt; blouse, stockings, appropriate foot wear (no tennis shoes or boots) and sweaters (with blazers). Excessive hair styles should be avoided.

The code for the boys covers hair (well groomed and no longer than the collar); moderate sideburns only; dress slacks or pants, socks and shoes but no gym shoes or boots.

Initially there was some question as to how much should be regulated but the consensus of the board seemed to be that the parents are the ones paying the bills and they feel there should be some type of a code and the board's obligation is to them as well.

Neither of the public high schools has a dress code.

Oshkosh Charter Airline Failed to Pay Fees

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Oshkosh-based charter airline that transports the University of Wisconsin football and basketball teams has failed to pay its current registration fees on eight aircraft, according to Fritz Wolf, administrator of the aeronautics division of the State Department of Transportation.

Wolf cited Basler Flight Service stationed at the Winnebago County Airport as one of many airlines and individual plane owners that fail to pay registration fees during a review of proposed new registration fee schedule. Although Wolf did not name the company, it's identity was revealed through the survey of a brochure produced for the company.

According to current fee schedules, the company headed by Warren Basler owes about $1,200 in registration fees for five DC3's, two Martin 404's, and one Douglas DC6B. The fees, that are levied in lieu of personal property tax on aircraft, were due Nov. 1, 1970, Wolf said.

Basler Flight Service, Inc., was under investigation last fall by the Federal Aviation Agency after a charter plane carrying the University of Wichita football team to a game crashed, killing most of the passengers. At that time, it lost one scheduled flight with the UW team and reportedly lost a basketball team flight when it was recently under question.

Wolf said suspicion of the airline on the basis of safety and maintenance and licensing factors is not justified. The equipment and services is adequate and safe, he indicated.

Enforcing the registration fee law is difficult, Wolf told the council on aeronautics. The law that provides a penalty of $500 and 90 days in jail for failure to renew registration is supposed to be enforced by the district attorneys, he said. But it is difficult to get them to do so. About 200 aircraft in the state are delinquent in registration.

Wolf proposed providing five or six thousand dollars to get state inspectors to enforce the law. The agency itself cannot do it, he said, because it has no authority to take offenders to court.

Testify at Hearing

Girl Scouts Oppose Landfill

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Some 60 Girl Scouts arrived here at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to climax a rather dreary daylong proceeding in the Kaukauna sanitary landfill controversy.

They came with the plea that the operation would ruin a highly desirable piece of nature, and would depreciate the esthetic and practical value of their adjacent camp property.

Juliette Gordon Low, founder of the Girl Scouts, would have been proud.

Held in the Brown County Courthouse Annex, the session Tuesday was in continuation of a hearing started in November before the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

City Testimony

Except for the Girl Scouts from the Fox River Valley Council, Tuesday was spent taking testimony from Robert L. Natrop, Kaukauna's director of public works. He maintained that the proposed landfill would not be undesirable, and stressed that it eventually would become a public park.

"Finding suitable available sites for solid waste disposal is a big problem," Natrop observed.

It was no demonstration, in the prevailing connotation of the term, that the young ladies from Kaukauna, Neenah, Appleton, Clintonville and other communities brought to the hearing. They were orderly, attentive, and very pretty in their uniforms or school clothes.

Four girls and one leader were sworn in as witnesses by Edward Main, DNR hearing examiner. Miss Priscilla MacDougall, intervener for the attorney generals office, did the questioning.

Kathy Riemen, 15, of Appleton, explained that the wooded ravine which is part of the area Kaukauna wants to use for waste disposal has been used by the Girl Scouts for nature study and recreation. A small stream enhances its value. The Camp Winnecomac property which adjoins, she said, is relatively flat land and does not afford such unique opportunities.

"I found a possum once, and we see deer and rabbit tracks, woodpecker holes and pine trees, and there are beautiful flowers like the trillium," she said.

Miss MacDougall asked how she felt about the threatened development.

"I wouldn't want to see a landfill site there," Kathy replied.

Conservation Creed

Similar comments and concerns were voiced by Barbara Krueger, 13, of Clintonville, and Patricia Gerow, 13, of Kaukauna.

Mrs. Susanne Oberhauser, a Girl Scout leader in Clintonville, supported the girls' high opinion of the area. The camp program would suffer great damage, she asserted, if the landfill project isn't stopped.

There being no objection from any of the principals, the session ended just before 6 o'clock by the 60-plus girls rising and reciting the Conservation Creed.

The hearing was convened Nov. 18 by the DNR under the six-citizen complaint procedure of the Wisconsin Water Resources Act. Mrs. Lloyd Williams, Appleton, is leader of the complainants.

Natrop was put on the stand by Don Green, Kaukauna city attorney, and was cross-examined by Peter Nelson, Appleton, a new site. It has been a frustrating experience. Some complainants. A registered professional engineer, he formerly was superintendent of street construction for the City of Green Bay.

In other cases, where annexation is not possible, town officials don't want Kaukauna's wastes.

Regional or sub-regional operations with neighboring communities also were investigated. The search involved a total of 15 prospective sites.

"We also investigated pulverizing and baling operations," Natrop added. "We found the cost too high at this time, and

County Waste Disposal Site Funds Eyed

If funds will be needed for acquisition of sites to establish a county solid waste disposal program, efforts will be made to include those funds in the bond issue for the county safety building.

Outagamie County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, said Tuesday he will ask the airport committee and the ad hoc solid waste disposal committee to meet with the executive committee in an attempt to clarify the site question.

The ad hoc committee in November had proposed use of clear zones at the ends of runways at the county airport as possible landfill sites.

A meeting was to have been held between the ad hoc and airport committees, but it was never called.

Also awaiting decision is how a county solid waste disposal program would be run. Except for agreement that participation would be voluntary, method of operation has not been formally discussed.

However, the questions Huseby wanted clarified before sought authority Tuesday for his committee to investigate charges in a WHBY editorial, committee for answering.

"How far can a county board go in investigating a court?" he asked. "Can they? Do you want to get involved in such an investigation?"

County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, said, "I hope you are aware of the seriousness of such an undertaking. Remember, judges are elected by the people as well as we are."

DeLaHunt also noted that an investigation costs money.

However, Huseby answered that "we have the authority to give them (the judges) money and benefits. I want to do the right thing. If you (the county board) want us to forget this, this is also fine with us."

Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, suggested that there was not that great of rush said the committee should get the answers to those questions and then, if it still wants to proceed, return in February.

Assessment of Annexed Land Raised From $300 to $3,700

MENASHA — Carl Schwarz-bauer has filed a suit in August, Winnebago County Circuit Court, the land will remain on the Branch 2 objection to the as-sessment placed on his land by May 1 of this year.

The petition filed by Schwarz-bauer contends that the $145,000 value is 100 per cent too high, compared to the cash value of the land and compared with other similar tracts in the town.

The property was annexed to the City of Menasha in August, 1969. Schwarzbauer's petition, on MENASHA — City Atty. Richard Steffens — in six pages of report and three pages of proposed ordinance — has unveiled what may become one of the more talked-about pieces of local legislation: a sewer user fee.

The proposed ordinance would set up a user fee in Menasha equal to up to a "maximum" of 100 per cent of the net water bill for the winter quarter of each year.

It would also provide for construction of control man-holes, at industrial expense, to "facilitate observation, measurement and sampling of his wastes, including normal sewerage."

The ordinance would also allow the director of public works to install waste meters if waste volumes "cannot other-wise be determined by the use of water meters and exemption water meters."

This is designed to control the industrial plants that take water from private wells or the river, which would not be measured in that industry's water bill.

The proposal also gives cer-tain city and sewerage commis-sion officials the right to con-duct on-site inspections of "properties for the purposes of inspection, observation, mea-surement, sampling and testing in accordance with the provi-sions of this ordinance."

This ordinance was prepared by Steffens specifically for Me-nasha but will also form the basis for discussion at a joint council-and-sewerage commis-sion meeting tonight on a user fee in both cities to turn the sewerage plant into a revenue source.

July 1 Date

If it is passed, it will go into effect on July 1.

Steffens delved deeply into the user-fee controversy in a six-page report that accompanied the proposal. In it, he notes the possibility of a surcharge provi-sion in the ordinance that "may very well be looked into, after the ordinance has been in operation for the first two years."

Such a surcharge would levy additional charges against in-dustries that contribute heavier amounts of biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) and suspended solids to the plant. Green Bay, for example, provides for a surcharge.

"So, in the event that industry raises the issue that a 100 per-cent service user fee, based on the water user fee, is equita-ble, on the other side of the fence, we can point out that we have not enacted the sur-charge," Steffens writes.

But he notes that a user fee based on 100 per cent of the water bill is "not likely to cover the 100 per cent of the operation of the plant along with debt-reirement and new construc-tion."

"On the other hand, we don't know exactly what the new plant will cost, either, although it is intended that the new plant will be financed by revenue bonds, so at the end of each and every year for the period of the suggested two-year or three-year trial, the municipality may have to make up the difference, depending upon the amount of federal and state aid we get," Steffens said.

The city attorney notes that the user fee in Menasha will mean an immediate reduction of $4 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, based on the 1971 budget. However, a $4 sewerage fee in the 1970 budget could be $8 or $10 in the 1972 and 1973 budgets respectively.

Other Ordinances

Steffens said he came up with his ordinance after reviewing the similar ones from other Wisconsin communities, and even Win-nepeg, Canada. He said the Menasha proposal "takes in the best of all these ordinances."

He notes that up until now, local residents have been "sub-sidizing local industry, and do-ing so heavily."

"This may very well have continued, except that the fed-eral government has now taken the position that if they are going to grant any aids for sewerage plant construction, there must be some type of user fee established," he writes. "In-dustry has fully recognized this fact, and reluctantly. To mini-mize the shock of this industry has taken the position that there should be combination "ad valorem" (tax financed) and sewer-age use basis."

Subsidizing Industry

"This office does not take the position that there is anything legally wrong in subsidizing industry," he continues. "Subsi-dization of various industries has been an American way of life. Had this not been done, the railroads would never have been built or the airplanes flown in the air."

But Steffens says that wheth-er it should continue is a "political," not a legal, ques-tion.

Police to Ask For Fact Finding

Outside Assistance Will be Sought to Reach Agreement

MENASHA — Negotiators for local police patrolmen and the city reportedly met for five hours Tuesday night. It didn't solve their differences over a 1971 contract, however, and the issue may now go to fact-finding.

Attending the meeting be-tween city negotiators and ne-gotiators for Local 34, Menasha Professional Policemen's Asso-ciation (MPPA) was a mediator from the Wisconsin Em-ploy-ment Relations Commission (WERC).

The issue is that Local 34 doesn't like what they're being offered in wages by the city for 1971.

The negotiator for police — Atty. Gordon Myse of Appleton — could not be reached for comment. Both sides in all city-labor negotiations this year have informally pledged to keep things out of the papers.

The patrolman's group will petition for fact-finding, which will probably not start for several weeks.

Fact-finding was tried two years ago in a Local 34-city dispute over wages, but neither side was especially happy with the results.

Home Site Restrictions Sought

NEENAH — Mayor Roman V. Hauser wants the plan commis-sion to come up with ideas on how to protect homeowner's property values by finding a way to govern the location of federally subsidized 235 home-building.

Hauser Tuesday asked the plan commission to "think about it and come up with a solution."

"I've had a few calls from concerned home owners who have made a substantial in-vestment in their homes, and now the blocks are being filled with the HUD homes," Hauser said.

The HUD homes are built under a federal section which underwrites the home construc-tion and guarantees the monthly payments, including the inter-est.

"The home owners who have made the investment don't have any protection against an infil-tration of the HUD homes," the mayor said.

"I don't have anything against the people who own the HUD homes but surrounding property owners are finding they have a problem trying to get their investment out of their homes," he said.

Wayne Bryan, public works director, suggested that about the only way it could be done would be to "restrict the size."

Ronald Zachow, deputy as-sessor, pointed out that the HUD homes usually "run from 860 to 900 square feet, Other three-bedroom houses anywhere from 1,100 to 1,200 square feet," he said.

Bryan and Zachow suggested that the only way would be through restrictive covenants placed on lots within a subdivi-sion.

Hauser, citing some areas where covenants had been writ-ten into a subdivision, said effort and he argued that "Those which restrict the lower cost, smaller homes were amount of money are useless because of inflating construction costs."

Bryan pointed out that some subdivisions have created com-mittees to review all home plans before construction starts.

Zachow said, "I don't know if the assessment on higher priced homes should be concen-trated in a single area, or if lowered value.

they should be spread out."

Hauser's suggestion was the second time the subject has come to the public attention. In September, petitions with about 70 signers were circulated in the Sixth Ward calling for controls over the HUD home building.

Richard Evensen, 1975 Gay Drive, was spearheading the effort and he argued that the lower cost, smaller homes were lowering the value of his home.

Signers included residents of Honeysuckle Lane, Oxford Court, Green Acres Lane and Tullar Road.

During his drive, Evensen called for controls or lowering the assessment on higher priced homes to compensate for the lowered value.

Problem Melts Away With a Little Ingenuity

NEENAH — What do you do when 13 inches of snow socks in your parking lot and there's no place to put the snow?

The people at McCarthy Haerli Jewelers drew on their basic knowledge of chemistry to find a solution to their problem.

Realizing that snow, when exposed to heat, melts, they decided to try putting the snow in a spot where it could be reduced to its basic chemical compound — water.

A week ago, they had lost their pair of parking spots behind their store on W. Wisconsin Avenue. And, to add to the problem, there was no place to put it without filling in their neighbor's parking spots.

So with the aid of a couple of garbage cans and a little elbow grease, they started the week-long removal and melting project.

They filled a couple of cans with snow, toled them to the basement to see how long it would take to melt. Discovering that in a couple of hours the snow compacted to a point where it could be dumped from the cans, they started their project in earnest.

Since then, more than 40 cans, each holding 20 gallons, have been trucked to the basement and turned to water. Since snow is 10 times more bulky than water, the 20 gallons of snow soon melts down to less than two gallons of water.

In the past week the cans have transformed the snow bank behind the store into almost two parking spaces — just what they need.

Ice Plowed Off

Fish Fever Starts on Lake

QUINNEY — East Winne-bago shoreline resort and tavern keepers are readying themselves and the lake for those hardy ice fishermen.

Men and machines have been busy plowing roads out onto the ice for the sports-men. About three miles have been cleared at Brothertown and Quinney, and resort owners at Stockbridge and Fairy Springs are making plans to plow soon.

Calumet County Conserva-tion Warden Richard Streng, however, warns fishermen to check with those who maintain the roads before ventur-ing out. Cars and shanties are out on the ice in the Quinney-Brothertown area, Streng said, but in some places ice is only six inches thick.

Fishing is "fair" Streng said, adding that he had seen good catches of pike from High Cliff State Park to Pipe.

A spokesman at a Quinney tavern said his business and the fishing was good last weekend, but cautioned fish-ermen to stay only on the plowed road. Ice measure-ment was given as 12 inches.

Ray Ecker, veteran ice fisherman, and operator of an ice shanty rental at Stock-bridge, said he had tested the ice Tuesday and found a minimum of 12 inches and maximum of 17 inches.

Ecker said there was no water on the ice in his area. Some shanties were out, he said, and he expects to take more out today.

At Stockbridge harbor the Christmas tree guide line is set in place, as it is at Quinney and Brothertown, and Gib Schoen said he expected to have a road out for the weekend.

Resort owners at Fairy Springs also plan to make roads and are catering to heavy snowmobile traffic, as are the Calumet County and High Cliff State Parks.

Fishing fever is coming on gradually, according to re-ports. While getting off to a slow start because of the heavy snow cover on the lake, tip-ups and jigging sticks are being brought out of storage and "Where can I buy minnows around here?" seems to be the question.

6 Candidates In 3rd Ward At Menasha

MENASHA — The race for alderman in this city's Third Ward has become crowded, all of a sudden.

Within the last two days, four new candidates have taken out papers. That makes a total of six candidates thus far for the April 6 election.

—Morgan Eckrich, 393 Naymut St.

—David T. Murray, 374 Elm St.

—Gerald Wagner, 417 Ahnaip St.

Add to that the names of Richard Taves, 512 Nicolet Blvd., and William Zeininger, Jr., 357 Ahnaip St., and you've got quite a race.

The Third Ward incumbent, Council President William Erickson, is not seeking re-election.

Other late developments in-clude the taking out of nomina-tion papers by a second candi-date for school board in Mena-sha. He is Thomas H. Feavel, 950 Williams St.

Charles Heinz, 337 First St., filed his papers to run for First Ward alderman.

Hortonville School Negotiations Start

HORTONVILLE — Teachers don, Clintonville, Shiocton, and the board of education took Hortonville. Under a schedule of the first step toward salary negotiations Monday night with the school board would offer something in exchange of proposals for the 1971-72 school year.

Proposals for wages, hours, and conditions of employment were exchanged by the board and the Hortonville Education Association. The first negotiating session has been set from 7 to 9 p.m. Jan. 25, prior to the regular board meeting.

In other business, Miss Marie Hemmy, a mid-year graduate of Oshkosh State University, was hired to replace Miss Beverly Schiefelbein in the English department.

Darrell Johnson was appointed to replace Miss Schiefelbein as chairman of the department.

Harold Miller, custodian, is retiring at the end of February. He will begin driving a school bus on April 1, at which time Joseph Deimer will retire from school bus driving duties. Deimer reaches the state's mandatory retirement age at the end of March.

The board will take applications for another custodian beginning March 1.

The board president, high school principal and administrator will attend a meeting with the Fox Valley Technical School Board, to discuss high school vocational programs in the area.

It was also announced that the school administrator had attended a meeting at New School, Chicago, from Lawrence London regarding the possibility of operating shared programs in vocational subjects.

Represented were New London, Clintonville, Shiocton, and the board of education took Hortonville. Under a schedule of the first step toward salary negotiations Monday night with the school board would offer something in exchange of proposals for the 1971-72 school year.

Churches Plan Annual Meetings

GREENVILLE — The United Methodist Churches, Greenville and Center, will hold their annual meetings, Jan. 17 at 2 p.m. at the Emmanuel Center with a potluck dinner at noon; and at 8 p.m. at the Faith Community Church, Greenville.

Dr. Dale Strong, district superintendent of the Northeast District of the United Methodist Church will preach at both worship services and will preside at both meetings. The Rev. Melvin Henrichs is pastor of the parishes.

Area Students Aid Muskie

A New London girl was one of Sen. Edmund Muskie's escorts on the campus of the American University of Cairo, Egypt, Tuesday.

Jan Demming, 23, daughter of with the Fox Valley Technical School Board, to discuss high school vocational programs in the area.

It was also announced that the school administrator had attended a meeting at New School, Chicago, from Lawrence London regarding the possibility of operating shared programs in vocational subjects.

Represented were New London, Clintonville, Shiocton, and the board of education took Hortonville. Under a schedule of the first step toward salary negotiations Monday night with the school board would offer something in exchange of proposals for the 1971-72 school year.

Olejniczak Has Little To Report

GREEN BAY — Green Bay Packer President Dominic Olejniczak today shed little new light on the search for a new Packer coach.

Olejniczak, issuing the statement from his office, stated that the field has been narrowed to a very few people but failed to specify the number.

"We are encouraged and believe that a decision will be reached before the draft (Jan. 28)," he said. "How far before we do not know but hopefully in sufficient time for the new coach to acquaint himself with the draft and direct same."

Mrs. Jessie Newman, Retired Chiropactor, Dies in New London

NEW LONDON — Mrs. Jessie G. Newman, 86, practicing chiropactor and masseuse here for 39 years before her retirement in 1959, died Tuesday after an extended illness.

Mrs. Newman, 1100 Werner Allen Road, graduated from the Palmer School of Chiropactor in 1918 and the School of Scientific Massage in 1925. She had been a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

She is survived by one daughter, two grandsons and 5 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Cline and Hanson Funeral Home where friends may call after 2 p.m. Thursday. Officiating will be the Rev. M. K. Staskal.

School Board Head to Resign

Kimberly Man Seeks Position as Village President

KIMBERLY — James Siebers, candidate for village president in the April election, announced Monday, he plans to resign as president of the board of education.

If elected village president, his resignation will be effective in April, but if unsuccessful in his bid, his resignation will be effective July 26, the date of the annual school district meeting.

The terms of three school board members will expire on the date of the annual meeting. Persons interested in running for positions on the school board must file a declaration of intent with the district clerk, Mrs. Marie Ruys, by Feb. 16. Declarations of intent are available at the Administrative Building.

Two board members are to be elected from Combined Locks and one from Kimberly. If Siebers' resignation is effective, in April, the board of education has the power to appoint a successor to serve until the date of the annual meeting.

If his resignation is effective on the date of the annual meeting, the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes in the April election will take office.

Candidates whose terms expire include Maurice Biersteker, Mrs. Marie Ruys and Harold Wentzel.

Voters may vote for any and all candidates listed on the ballot, even if the candidate does not reside in his town or village.

Housing Board Elects Chairman

KAUKAUNA — Norman Foxgrover was elected chairman of the board of the Kaukauna Housing Authority at its meeting Monday to succeed Lee Scherer who had asked to be relieved of his duties as chairman at last month's meeting.

Scherer had served as chairman since he was appointed to the post by Mayor Gilbert Anderson in 1967. As chairman, Scherer made many trips to the Housing and Urban Development office in Chicago and handled much of the correspondence required to Washington to enable the city to secure housing for the elderly.

Scherer was credited with many hours of work which culminated in Kaukauna securing the Golden Venture Apartments, one of the first low-rent housing projects for the elderly in the area.

Robert Goetzman was named to succeed Joseph Sadlier as vice chairman. Both Scherer and Sadlier will continue to serve as board members along with Mrs. Edward Oliva. The housing authority members are appointed by the mayor with the approval of the City Council.

Parents Will Discuss School Transportation

FREEDOM — A meeting to discuss school transportation has been set by the parents of Freedom Elementary School pupils at 8 p.m. Monday in the school.

William Garvey and Joseph Van Camp, bus company representatives, will discuss the overall picture of school transportation. There will be an open discussion.

Talks Set For Merging Of 2 Districts

Hilbert, Stockbridge Boards to Discuss School Question

HILBERT — Feb. 1 and 2 have been set by the Hilbert and Stockbridge Boards of Education for an advisory referendum on the merger of the two small districts.

Confirmation of the dates from the Stockbridge panel has been received. Supt. Richard Yenchiesky told the Hilbert board at a special meeting last week.

Two public informational meetings are scheduled in the two districts Hilbert will have the special meeting at 8 p.m. Feb. 1 in the high school gym. The Stockbridge meeting will be at 8 p.m. Feb. 2 at Stockbridge High School. Both boards of education will be present at the meetings to explain reasons for reorganization and to answer questions.

A ballot vote will be taken on whether the districts should hold an official referendum on reorganizing the two districts. The ballots from the Hilbert, meeting and the one at Stockbridge will be sealed and counted simultaneously.

Final reports have been received by the publicity committee from all advisory committees and facts have been assembled in an informational brochure, which will be distributed to residents of the two districts.

Egypt Favors U.N. Force In Mideast

The ASSOCIATED PRESS — Egypt is proposing a three-point Middle East peace plan calling for a Big Four peacekeeping force under the U.N. flag, an authoritative Cairo newspaper said today.

Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad had a telephone conversation Tuesday with Mohammed El Zayyat, Egypt's U.N. ambassador, and presumably asked him to pass the plan on to U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

Al Gomhouria, organ of the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party, said the plan also calls for the U.N. Security Council to meet before the current cease-fire expires Feb. 5 to draw up peace guidelines.

1967 Resolution — These would be based on the council's November 1967 resolution, which called for Israeli withdrawal from the territory it occupied in the 1967 war and Arab recognition of "secure boundaries" for Israel.

The third point in the plan, the newspaper said, is total Middle East evacuation by Israel of the territory it occupied.

Israel presented its peace proposals to Jarring last weekend during his recent visit to them when he visited Jerusalem, and he relayed them to the Egyptian force should satisfy Israel's demand for security. If Israel dors Monday and Tuesday after he returned to New York.

The Israeli proposals have not been made public, but sources in Jerusalem said they covered the Palestine refugee issue, future economic relationships between Israel and the Arabs, the British It said Britain had cease-fire along the Suez Canal, and the possibility of demilitarized zones and prisoners of war exchanges. But before the Israelis discuss and of these issues, the sources said, they want a declaration from Egypt that it is willing to sign a peace treaty setting up permanent boundaries for Israel and ending 22 years of war.

Cairo Report

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said that the Egyptian ambassador had asked Jarring to make the Israeli proposals public. This was taken in Cairo to mean that Egypt found nothing new in them.

Al Gomhouria said the Egyptian peace plan calls on the Big Four powers—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—to "shoulder their responsibility toward peace" by participating in the proposed peacekeeping force.

This force, the newspaper said, would have a mandate to prevent "aggression" and thus would have more power than the U.N. emergency force which had a supervisory role in the

The paper said Riad told British, French and Soviet leaders during his recent visit to them that such peacekeeping force should satisfy Israel's demand for security. If Israel should refuse to accept the idea, he added, then Israel would be "exposing her ill will and expansionist designs."

Al Gomhouria said the Egyptian plan got "total support" from France and "understanding" in Britain. It said Britain had passed the proposals on to the United States.

Harriman Revelation Soviets Had Role In Bombing Halt

MOSCOW (AP) — W Averell Harriman came out of a Kremlin meeting today saying he is still convinced the Russians want the Indochinese war stopped. He also revealed they helped in arranging the 1968 agreement to halt U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam.

Harriman was President Lyndon B. Johnson's chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks. He is now retired and is in Moscow on a private visit. He made his remarks at a news conference after a meeting with Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Harriman also said the Russians had helped settle the dispute over the conference table at the talks.

more priest indicted Tuesday with Berrigan, identified themselves at a news conference in Washington as the "East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives," and said the Berrigans were not members of their group and denied a kidnap plot ever existed. "Our philosophy and our tactics would not allow it," said the Rev. Joseph R. Wenderoth, 35, of Baltimore, who was named a defendant in the indictment.

Other Defendants

Also named defendants were Roman Catholic nun, Sister Elizabeth McAlister, 31, of Marymount College in Terrytown, N.Y.; the Rev. Neil Raymond McLaughlin, 30, of Baltimore; Anthony Scoblick, 30, of Baltimore, a former Josephite priest and son of former U.S. Rep. James P. Scoblick, R-Pa.; and Eghal Ahmad, 40, of Chicago, a native of Pakistan and fellow of the Adlai Stevenson Institute of Public Affairs on the University of Chicago campus.

The indictment named seven persons including Daniel Berrigan as co-conspirators but not defendants, meaning they do not face formal charges. They are: Sister Beverly Bell, 43, and Sister Marjorie A. Shuman, 47, both Catholic nuns, of Washington, D.C.; Thomas Davidson, 25, of Washington, D.C.; William Davidson, 43, of Haverford, Pa., a professor at Haverford College; Paul Mayer, 39, of Edgewater, N.J., a former priest; and Sister Joques Egan, 52, of New York, a nun in the Order of the Sacred Heart of Mary.

Others Arrested

The grand jury returned the indictment at 5 p.m. Tuesday, but announcement was withheld until FBI agents had arrested Ahmad in Chicago, Sister Elizabeth McAlister in Newark, N.J., and Wenderoth, McLaughlin and Scoblick in Baltimore.

Joan Cotton, U.S. attorney in the Middle District of Pennsylvania where the conspiracy is alleged to have taken place, said the jury heard four days of testimony over a period of several weeks.

Among overt acts listed by the indictment was a visit by Philip Berrigan and Wenderoth to the underground heat tunnels in Washington less than a month before Berrigan's capture.

The indictment also said that on Sept. 20, Joseph Wenderoth discussed the Washington, D.C., tunnel system with a General Services Administration engineer.

Sent Messages

On June 29 and Aug. 24, the indictment said, Philip Berrigan sent messages from the Lewisburg penitentiary to Sister Elizabeth McAlister.

Other attempts to communicate between the two were apparently thwarted by prison officials.

The indictment also recorded a number of meetings among Berrigan, Wenderoth and several of the alleged conspirators in Lewisburg and in Connecticut after the Berrigans had been transferred to Danbury.

Formal charges against the six defendants include conspiracy to destroy government property, conspiracy to possess and transport across state lines illegal explosives and conspiracy to kidnap and transport across state lines their victim.

Continued Use of Inflated Pricing Favored by Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Auto industry spokesmen have urged the public as to which competitive makes are to continue permitting manufacturers to post exaggerated price tags on windows of new cars.

"Ford believes that it is critically important that manufacturers suggested retail prices for automobiles continue to be set at levels that make it virtually certain all buyers can, in fact, buy the car at or below the advertised or sticker price," John J. Nevin, Ford Motor Co. marketing vice president, told the FTC.

Nevin's counterpart at Chrysler, Byron J. Nichols, called the sticker price "accurate, fair and nondeceptive to the consumer."

A recent FTC study disclosed that 98 per cent of the new autos sold in the United States were at prices below the list price.

The vice presidents made their statements Tuesday at a hearing on a proposal requiring manufacturers to list auto prices 3 per cent above the "lowest price at which sales are made within the highest 30-per cent range of sales."

The industry opposed the proposal, saying it would be impossible to comply with because of the fluctuating and complex nature of the market.

Nevin defended the present retail price list required by law since 1958.

"In the years since passage some 100 million new cars have been sold using suggested prices that in our judgment were just what Congress intended—a point at which bargaining could begin," he said.

Nichols said: "Sticker prices as possible."

"We don't want to mislead the public," Nichols said. But as for a new pricing system, he conceded, "The method of determining this, we just don't know where to start. But we think something has to be done."

"We believe it is undesirable for the commission to establish a course of action that would lead the public to believe that some new suggested price is the 'right price,'" Nevin said.

Nevin also said, "Ford's franchise agreements and the guidelines urged by its field sales force clearly state the company's policy of avoiding deceptive, misleading or unethical advertising."

Nichols, in his opening remarks, said "Chrysler enthusiastically supports the commission's objectives of truthful advertising and adequate public disclosure."

A spokesman for General Motors declined to engage in the exchange because the firm is currently involved in price litigation on the West Coast.

Chanel Funeral Held in Paris

PARIS (AP) — Hundreds of Parisians, including many women wearing her world-renowned fashions, thronged the columned Church of the Madeleine today for the funeral of Gabrielle "Coco" Chanel.

Crowds stood around the door of the plain oaken casket bearing the body of the "grande dame" of fashion, which was brought in and covered with white flowers.

Over $2,000 in profits from the sale of Christmas trees was distributed recently by the Appleton Y's Men's Club.

Arnold Evans, club president, turned over a check to YMCA general secretary Robert Brunken as a final payment on the group's building fund pledge. Evans also gave Dr. William Chandler, YMCA president, checks for $175 for taxes on the Sea Lion Lake wilderness camp grounds, and $200 for membership.

Richard Calder, world service fund chairman, was given a check for $100. Earlier in December, the club donated a $125 scholarship to Lane Yost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Yost, for studies at George Williams College.

UWGB Offers Noncredit Courses

Need a spring tonic for those winter doldrums? The prescription from University Extension at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay is a non-credit class.

Seventeen different programs are offered to help you hone talents and broaden horizons. Listed by starting dates they are as follows:

"Creativity and the Preschool Child" — 9:30 to 11 a.m. on five consecutive Mondays, Jan. 25 to Feb. 22, at Union Congregational Church. Mothers will be introduced to materials, ideas and resources for enhancing the preschooler's experience with a project, reported that club members spent over 1,200 hours cutting, hauling and selling the trees.

"Oil Painting" — 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in either five or 10 sessions, consecutive Thursdays, Jan. 28 to Feb. 25, and March 4 to April 1, at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay main campus. Beginning or advanced artists will investigate techniques of oil painting, drawing, composition, color theory and consideration of the medium as a means of personal expression.

"Modern Dance Technique" — 7:30 p.m. consecutive Tuesdays, Feb. 2 to April 6, at the UWGB Deckner Avenue building. Basic skills of strength, control, energy and rhythmic awareness of modern dance technique will be explored.

Food for Thought Not Enough to Stay Alive

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M. D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a college student living on a strict budget, going to school full time and working part time to support myself.

My furnished room does not provide for meals and I can't afford to eat out much at present prices. I am considering living on the following:

— Instant breakfast food (dry type).

— Instant dry milk (off brands).

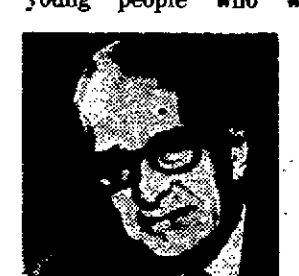

— Vitamins, one a day, a cheap brand.

— Maybe one or two times a day, a small salad. I priced it at 30 cents in a nearby hospital coffee shop.

My question: can I remain healthy and keep up with my studies on such a budget?

Maybe a candy bar here and there to fill me up. — Miss P. T.

Don't try it! I have respect for young people who will struggle to get an education, but you're trying to do too much on too little.

I can't tell from your letter whether you intend to try to subsist on one meal a day plus a couple of salads, or to eat breakfast food three times a day. Either way, you simply can't get enough calories that way to meet your needs — working and studying!

But aside from that, you will be getting only a tiny amount of protein, and without protein you will soon be sluggish and tired. And even more important, lack of protein means lack of the "building blocks" from which the body is structured (as contrasted to mere calories).

The vitamin pills are a precaution with such a limited diet, but they can do only so much for you. You still ought to have a source of vitamin C — citrus fruit or juice, or tomato juice, daily.

You need more sheer bulk (especially vegetables and fruit) to provide a sufficient quantity to keep your digestive tract operating properly.

The principal protein foods are lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs. While you can't do any cooking in your room, you can watch that coffee shop (or the school cafeteria — isn't there one?) for inexpensive forms of these foods. Instead of the candy bars "to fill up," what about a sandwich of cold meat, cheese, or even peanut butter, which has protein and fat? (Fat is rich in calories — richer than sugar.)

There may be a home economics department in your school that can help you plan meals within your means.

If your budget still won't stretch to cover such a suggestion, then perhaps you should not try to take a full-time school schedule. Drop a couple of courses and work more, so you can eat better.

Trying to get along on your proposed plan would soon leave you hungry, tired, doing a poor job at work and at school; and too much of it could undermine your health.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: is it true that taking a small portion of garlic will help lower high blood pressure? — A. F. N.

No, it's not true.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor does not approve of giving medication for gout, but I have a diet chart which I follow quite faithfully. It doesn't mention some things at all. I love greens and wonder about dandelion greens, escarole, and endive.

Mrs. H. L.

You can safely eat greens. Vegetables principally restricted,

Three Combined Locks

Trustee Candidates Circulate Papers

COMBINED LOCKS — Three candidates are circulating nomination papers for the offices of trustee to be filled in the April election, including two incumbents, according to village clerk Mrs. Irene Rehmer.

Incumbents circulating papers are George Bosch and Gerald Wydeven. The third incumbent, Henry Wulterkins, has not yet taken out papers. Third candidate running is Mrs. Alvin Sanders. Deadline for filing papers is 5 p.m. Jan. 26.

(not totally eliminated) are legumes — those of the bean and pea family.

Unless there's some special problem in your case, all I can say is that I do approve of medication for gout if it is severe enough to bother the patient.

Lawrence to Receive Grant For Research

Lawrence University is one of five Wisconsin colleges and universities to share in grants totaling $94,710 from the National Science Foundation.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson announced today that Lawrence will receive $5,100 for a project under James S. Evans, assistant professor of chemistry.

The Lawrence grant, under the undergraduate research participation program of the foundation will support research experiences for three students, working with three faculty members on the interrelation of light with matter, Lawrence officials said.

The summer project will involve Dennis Chasten, assistant professor of Chemistry, and John Brandenberger, assistant professor of physics, in addition to Evans.

Sen. Nelson noted that the state grants will be used to finance various types of research next summer in a wide variety of fields.

Wisconsin's grants were among a total of nearly $4 million made to 261 colleges and universities and nonprofit research organizations for 253 projects.

Baked Farfalle

Stuffed Manicotti

Fusilli Spaghetti

Whatever Its Shape, It's All Called Pasta

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR
By Lillian Mackesy

Pasta is its name . . . it comes in all sizes and shapes to make dishes interesting and variable. It's fun buying just the right kind for the right dish, but it's all pasta just the same.

For instance, the long, long vermicelli is just the thing for real Italian meatballs and spaghetti mixed with sauce that's been simmered for hours or one of the make-aheads that somebody else seasoned and simmered for hours.

There are the "butterflies" which translates to farfalle in Italian and aptly describes the shape of this pasta. There is the familiar elbow macaroni that's done yeoman service for years in the American casserole, particularly in the macaroni and cheese dish every family knows. There's egg noodle, wide and flat, or thin and long and even in spiral shape to make an interesting variation.

The Baked Farfalle is teamed with sliced olives for a bright, appetizing casserole. Those attractive macaroni shapes known as "egg bows" may be used in place of the butterfly variety. Both are good for this dish. This is filling food that's in the budget class with a wonderful taste because of its use of three kinds of cheese.

The Familiar Seashell macaroni is used in the Stew Italiano, above, the dish that's made from canned meatballs in brown gravy with the touch of tomato sauce. The stew is a meal in itself, hearty and in the class of economy foods. Each of the dishes illustrated uses a different form of pasta to make each dish interesting, distinctive and an exciting recipe to prepare. Some of the dishes are made from close to scratch while others, such as the stew, show how convenience foods can help the cook with time-saving, budget dishes.

Elbow Macaroni Is used to prepare the Macaroni Spinach Tortine a, recipe borrowed from the original Italian. Here, the little green and creamy white squares make excellent finger foods, but the dish can do double duty. With larger, heartier squares, it makes a fine main dish for supper, too. Both the appetizers and supper squares are served warm.

Tiny Creature Expires at Erma's Less Cholesterol in New Egg Products

BY ERMA BOMBECK

We've never given a party in our lives that something (or someone) didn't crawl inside our wall and die.

It's the price you pay for rustic, rural living.

In my mind, I visualize a group of mice meeting in a cornfield and one of them says to the other, "Bufford, you don't look too good."

"Oh, I'll be all right," says Bufford, "it's just a head cold."

"Nevertheless," says the leader, "why don't you check in at Bombeck's wall."

The night of our last party, Bufford didn't make it to the wall. He staggered into our old pump organ and kicked off.

My husband came into the house, sank to his knees and gasped, "Not again! Where this time?"

"In the pump organ," I said.

"Can't we get rid of the odor?"

"Only if you want to paint the living room."

"We mustn't panic," he said patting his wrists with a deodorizer wick. "We're just going to have to make sure that no one plays the organ tonight." We both nodded.

The party was in high gear when Max Marx sat down to play the organ. I grabbed a can of deodorizer and followed him.

"What are you doing?" he asked annoyed.

I turned the deodorizer on myself. "It's Skinny Dip," I said feebly, "to make me irresistible."

I watched in horror as he pulled out the stops on the organ and started to pump. As the bellows wheezed in and out, spreading misery throughout the house, three women fainted and one man put out his pipe.

"I say," he said pausing, "do you have a dog?"

"We have three of them, but they're outside."

He began to play again, then stopped and sniffed. "Is someone in the apartment cooking sauerkraut or making sulfur with a junior chemistry set?"

"We don't live in an apartment."

"Is someone wearing old gym shoes?" he asked.

His wife came over at the moment and leaned over his shoulder.

"Max, your music stinks."

"Is that it?" he said and moved on to the kitchen for a stronger drink.

Although the Chinese have been making dried egg powders for hundreds of years, the process of drying and freezing eggs are relatively new in the United States. Up until recently, those products which were made in our country were mostly for institutional and industrial use, according to John Skinner, poultry specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Several companies, however, have begun to make egg products for general consumption. Some of these have the egg yolk — the primary source of fat — removed and are therefore excellent choices for persons on restricted cholesterol diets.

For example, one egg product compound is a combination of dried egg whites, safflower meal and oil. The yolk has been replaced with safflower oil, a high polyunsaturated oil, reducing the total amount of fat and resulting in a product with fewer calories.

Although this compound is excellent for persons restricting their cholesterol intake, it is not the answer for the person who is allergic to eggs since the allergy is usually caused by the protein in the egg. Protein is found in the white of the egg and it is that portion which is used in this product.

Several other egg products are on the market including dried egg powder made from whole eggs. When reconstituted, this powder can be scrambled or used in a recipe but won't do for "sunny side up" or "over easy" fried eggs.

Most health food stores carry egg product compounds or dried eggs. If you want your grocer to carry them, encourage him to stock them.

Retail size packages of these products haven't previously been available to the public in many areas. Prices at present are higher than fresh eggs but this may change if acceptance and usage becomes widespread.

Wrestling Coach Sports Skirts, Teaches Music

LINWOOD, Kan. (AP) — The Linwood High School boys wrestling team has a new coach—23 year-old Clara Shub.

Mrs. Shub was named to the post last week. Her principal duties at the 90-student school in Leavenworth County are as teacher of vocal and instrumental music for both the high school and the seventh and eighth grades.

She took the job of wrestling coach because the boys wanted to compete and none of the male staff members at the school felt able to handle the job.

"I grew up in western Kansas, where wrestling is big," she said, when asked about her qualifications for the coaching job.

She comes from Atwood, Kan., and she and her husband, Charles Shub, a candidate for a doctor of philosophy degree in computer science at the University of Kansas, are avid sports fans. They live in Lawrence, Kan.

Her volunteer assignment makes her the only officially sanctioned woman high school wrestling coach in Kansas.

Mrs. Shub concedes she is getting some help from Dean Sheets, whose son, Monte, is a sophomore on her four-man wrestling team. Sheets is an official referee for high school wrestling in Kansas and has helped the boys learn many of the rules.

Their official coach on trips to tournaments, however, will be Mrs. Shub.

The school is not a member of any regular league but plans to enter various state approved meets.

ON BRIDGE

by
W. G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

For years the vast majority of players have led the king unless the A-K were doubleton. Recently, a number of players have adopted the lead of the ace instead of the king. The theory is that much of the ambiguity will be eliminated for opening leader's partner.

Although the more recent approach has merit, it is not a cure-all for the problems involved. Witness today's game hand, played in a recent team-of-four contest between the avant garde and the traditionalists:

North-South vulnerable

NORTH		EAST
♠ A5	7	♠ 10543	2
♥ AKQJ3	10	♥ K82	9
♦ 1043	8	♦ K832	7
♣ 1084	6	♣ K832	5

WEST		SOUTH
♠ 842	9	♠ KQJ1033	6
♥ 971	6	♥ 5	4
♦ AQ5	3	♦ J76	2
♣ A76	1	♣ KJ5	1

The bidding:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
2♥ Pass 3♥ Pass
4♥ Pass 4♣ Pass
Opening lead: Ace of clubs.

The bidding was the same in both rooms, and both Souths reached a four-spade contract.

When played the first time, West was using the modern method, ace from A-K. West felt he had to lead a minor suit or risk losing the chance to beat the contract with declarer discarding minor suit losers on the heart suit. He did not want to lead from the A-Q of diamonds and he did not want to underlead the club ace.

He, therefore, led the club ace as a "least of evils" choice. East, quite naturally, thought West had led the ace from A-K. Therefore, East signalled with his club nine in hopes of cashing three quick club tricks.

Unfortunately, West did not correctly analyze East's holding and West continued with clubs. Declarer won the club and took the rest of the tricks. When the hand was replayed, the traditionalist West also opened the ace of clubs for the same reasons as before. However, using standard methods, the lead of the ace denied the king instead of promising it. East was able to signal discouragement with the club deuce.

West's trump holding, coupled with dummy's exposed heart suit, led him to the correct defense. He switched to diamonds. The defense collected three diamonds to go with the ace of clubs to defeat the contract one trick.

Does today's hand prove that it is better to lead the king from A-K? No. The lesson is that contract bridge is a game of probabilities. Different methods serve to solve different types of problems. No one method can solve all the problems.

For bidding practice, 12 pamphlets of 100 practice hands each are available. Compare your results with The Aces. Six different sets $7. All 12 sets, $13. Send request to: Aces International, Inc., 5925 Forest Lane No. 516, Dallas, Tex 75220. (Copyright 1971)

Your Problems

An Open Plea to Young Wutzynames

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have nothing against long hair, sideburns, beards, and moustaches, but I do wish kids who have gone in for these radical changes in appearance would reintroduce themselves when they encounter adults who haven't seen them for a year or two.

This past week I was embarrassed three times by friends of my son who came up to me and I did not recognize them. One lad had grown a full beard and moustache. His hair was down to his shoulders. The last time I saw the boy he was pink-cheeked and had a crewcut. Another lad had his long hair tied in a ponytail. He, too, had grown a moustache. He was wearing steel-rimmed glasses and a wide brim hat that covered his face.

Don't these kids realize how different they look? One of the boys hinted that I had passed him up on purpose.

Please print my letter and take us older folks off the spot. Thank you. — Hello Mr. Wutzynames

Dear Hello: Here's your letter and I second the motion. It has happened to me too. Incidentally, it's good manners to identify yourself by name when you encounter someone you have not seen recently, even if you haven't grown a beard or a moustache. It can save embarrassment for both parties

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a divorcee with a crushing problem. Three months ago I met a man who had many qualities my ex-husband lacked. I became very close. I saw Lew at least four times a week. We shared everything. I was sure he would ask me to marry him. Last week the bomb fell. Lew said we were getting too serious and he wants to "cool it" and date other women. He hasn't called me in six days. I can't get him off my mind.

He's all I ever wanted. I am heartsick and lost. Don't tell me to forget him. I can't. What I need is some down-to-earth advice on how to get Lew to marry me. I'm counting on you. — Jilted in Contra Costa

Dear Jill: O.K. don't forget him. Sit around and cry a lot. Don't eat. Don't sleep. Play the role of the tragic reject. Get people to feel sorry for you. After a while you'll be as sought after as a case of small pox. Lew will run a mile when he sees you coming and you will have eliminated yourself from the picture permanently.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband owns his own business. His office is in our home. I do his bookkeeping and I answer the phone.

The telephone starts to ring as early as 6 a.m. It doesn't stop until midnight. I can stand the early morning and late night calls, but I cannot stand the calls that come during supper. This really drives me up the wall. My husband is a gentle soul who hates to cut people off, so of course everyone takes advantage of him. I don't understand how his customers can be so inconsiderate. Everywhere in America people eat supper between six and seven o'clock. (For the rich it's probably later.) Every night this week our supper has been spoiled by the telephone. Last night I put his spare ribs back in the oven three times. When he finally got ready to eat they were all dried out. What's the solution? — High Blood Pressure in Riverside.

Dear H.B.P.: Ever hear of a wall jack? It disconnects your phone and this could be the solution for those 6 a.m. and midnight calls as well as the dinner interruptions.

Check Snowmobile Suit Features Before You Buy

Winter and snow brings out the new breed of sportsmen — snowmobilers. Like the ski buff, the snowmobiler needs clothes appropriate to the sport, advises Mrs. Alice Schultz, Outagamie Home Economist.

Snowmobile suits need to be lightweight, water repellent, wind resistant and lose fitting, says Mrs. Schultz. The suits are one-piece insulated garments, often made from nylon. Vinyls are also available. Look for a closely woven fabric for wind protection. Polyester fiber fills provide warmth without weight. Check the label for a water repellent finish.

Look for care instructions when purchasing snowmobile suits. Mrs. Schultz says, because instructions vary. Some suits can be either washed or dry cleaned — others dry cleaned or washed only. If the care label isn't sewn into the suit, read the hangtag carefully. Save it for future reference.

You may find snowmobile suits in sizes for men, women, boys and children. For a comfortable fit, try on the suit over clothes that you'll be wearing underneath. With the suit on, sit, bend and kneel. Straddle a chair to simulate the riding position on the snowmobile to check leg and crotch length.

The suits have many special features for warmth, safety and comfort. Most have detachable, closefitting hoods, knitted or plain collars, and knitted sleeve cuffs.

Zipppers on snowmobile suits may be metal or plastic. The front opening zipper often has a cloth flap over it to protect it from the snow. And, it may have a flap under it to protect clothes from snagging. Some of the zipppers in men's snowmobile suits are two-way, and zipppers usually are found in the leg for ease in dressing. Pockets are zipped or snapped to keep out the snow. And, separate side zipppers may give access to trouser pockets.

Non-Skid Legs

Leg stirrups may be used to hold down the leg of the pant. A special feature on some suits are non-skid legs. This is rough simulated leather placed on the front of the legs from the knee to the ankle, which keeps the knees from slipping while kneeling.

A wide variety of colors are available. Some are keyed to match the machines.

Prices vary widely on snowmobile suits. Shop around to find a good fit and features to suit your pocketbook, Mrs. Schultz advises.

Dry Air Harmful To Furniture

It may be that antique furniture just doesn't go with the atmosphere in the modern home.

"Because a piece of furniture has come through 100 or more years in excellent condition doesn't mean that it can survive without damage in the modern home," says Burton Shaffer, executive vice president of Hamilton Humidity, Inc., Chicago.

"The climate inside today's homes can be harmful not only to precious antiques, but to all other furnishings as well."

Dry air has a sponge-like tendency to draw moisture from furniture, and even from human skin and mucous membranes.

"The natural moisture content of wood is from five to eight per cent," he says, "which makes furniture quite susceptible to warping, cracking and buckling as the moisture is drawn out. Veneers can peel. Joints become loose. Finishes craze and crack."

A humidifier, which keeps the relative indoor humidity at 35-40 per cent by evaporating 35 to 40 gallons of water in 24 hours can help. Otherwise, antiques can look their age and worse.

Part III What Will Your Teen or College Age Son or Daughter Do This Summer?

A major bane that plagued many of last year's student travelers was charter flight operators who figuratively, rather than literally, ran fly-by-night outfits. Quite a large number of students found themselves stranded... some at U. S. air terminals and others abroad... because their charter flights had been canceled without notice. Some of the operators had gone into bankruptcy, and others absconded with fares that students had sent in to them. Those who were cheated at the U. S. end never got off the ground. The rest, who found themselves in foreign air terminals without cash and with no return flights, spent some uncomfortable days until their parents or the U. S. government bailed them out. But at least they had their fling.

Check on the reliability and the credentials of charter flight operators before you turn over your cash to them. Don't permit yourself to be pressured into signing up. Shop around. You must be a member of any organization that charters flights, other than an educational institution, for at least six months prior to your trip. If you don't comply with this Federal Aviation Agency ruling you have no recourse if anything goes wrong.

Also, check with the different U. S. and foreign air lines and compare their students group and tour rates with those offered by private groups and charterers. Some are no more expensive than special charters. And there is always Icelandic Airways which will get you to Europe and back on regular flights below the rates offered by other airlines because their planes are propeller driven and take a few hours longer than the jumbo jets.

Once in Europe, consider buying a Eurail pass that entitles you to unlimited rail travel at greatly reduced rates. Distances in Europe are nothing like those in the U. S. and you can stop over anywhere and see things that you would miss if you restricted yourself to flying. You can also take a bicycle along and travel really inexpensively.

Intermedia (777 3d Avenue, New York, New York 10017), for a $5.00 membership fee will provide your son or daughter with a list of English-speaking physicians anywhere in the world, who will charge no more than $10.00 to $15.00 for an emergency visit. Finally, advise them to contact the nearest U. S. embassy or consulate if, for any reason, they get stuck in a foreign country. The embassies can't and won't bail them out of a drug rap, but they will aid them in various ways, including lending them money to get home in an emergency. It's one of the privileges of having a U. S. passport. But impress them with the fact that they can't expect such help if they abuse it.

Does your teen- or college-age son or daughter want to work, travel or study in the U. S. or abroad this summer or next? Would you like to help him or her get the right information or a scholarship? Arnold Arnold has prepared this booklet especially for readers of this column. It lists the best and most reliable books, and private and gov-

Shorter, Lighter Pearls Make Fashion Scene

How, and why, cultured pearls will be worn in the year ahead, was the subject of a massive press luncheon held by the cultured pearl industry for 200 newspaper, magazine and television editors in New York recently. The editors, representing media which reaches 85 per cent of the nation's consumers, came from as far away as Hawaii and Puerto Rico, to report upon the new styles for spring and summer 1971.

Emphasized was the important role cultured pearls play, both as a jewel and as a key fashion accessory.

A fashion show illustrated how a number of designers showed pearls with their spring collections. Stan Herman's kooky, young dresses were shown with tinted pearls: silver, blue grey and gold. Ann Fogarty's more sophisticated "career girl" clothes went perfectly with one, two or three strands of cultured pearls, none longer than matinee length.

Victor Joris' slinky jersey chemises were used to illustrate a "do it yourself" story: long ropes made up of cultured pearl chokers (strung with invisible clasps) were made on stage into shorter necklaces, bibs and dog collars to demonstrate their versatility. Chester Weinberg's elegant suits and cocktail dresses were accessorized with single strand chokers, or three to five-strand dog collars, the most popular styles this year.

Sarmi's evening gowns became the backgrounds for "designer" cultured pearl creations from Barbara Anton, Arthur King and Norman LeBeau. And to complete the show, a group of wedding gowns from Priscilla of Boston appeared on the runway, modestly accessorized with cultured pearl chokers and princess length necklaces.

The editors were told of the importance of cultured pearls as a jewel and urged to convey to their readers that cultured pearls have lasting value, as opposed to imitation pearls.

WINE On the Table

By William Clifford

Recently we reported on two new phenomena of the sparkling wine world that are frothing up all across the country.

One is the curiously-named blend of champagne and sparkling Burgundy, Cold Duck. The other is the first champagne cocktail in a convenient pressurized can.

Now the inventors of the cocktail have added up one and one to make phenomenon number three — the Club Cold Duck in a can.

Taste Enjoyed

Different people seem to be enjoying Cold Duck in different ways from champagne.

Generally they drink it sans ceremony, without elegant stemmed glassware, without casting a beady eye at the bead (which is the wine pro's name for the bubbles — very small and long-lasting in the best champagnes). They simply enjoy the mellow winey taste and the sparkle.

The advantage of the Club Cold Duck in cans is that you store it and chill it and carry it around to outdoor sports, cookouts, etc. without the burden of thick heavy champagne bottles. You also open it with a pull of the pop-top, in place of prolonged combat with the capsule, barbed wire, and seemingly dynamite-proof cork.

When and Where

If you're not sure what to drink Cold Duck with, start at the top.

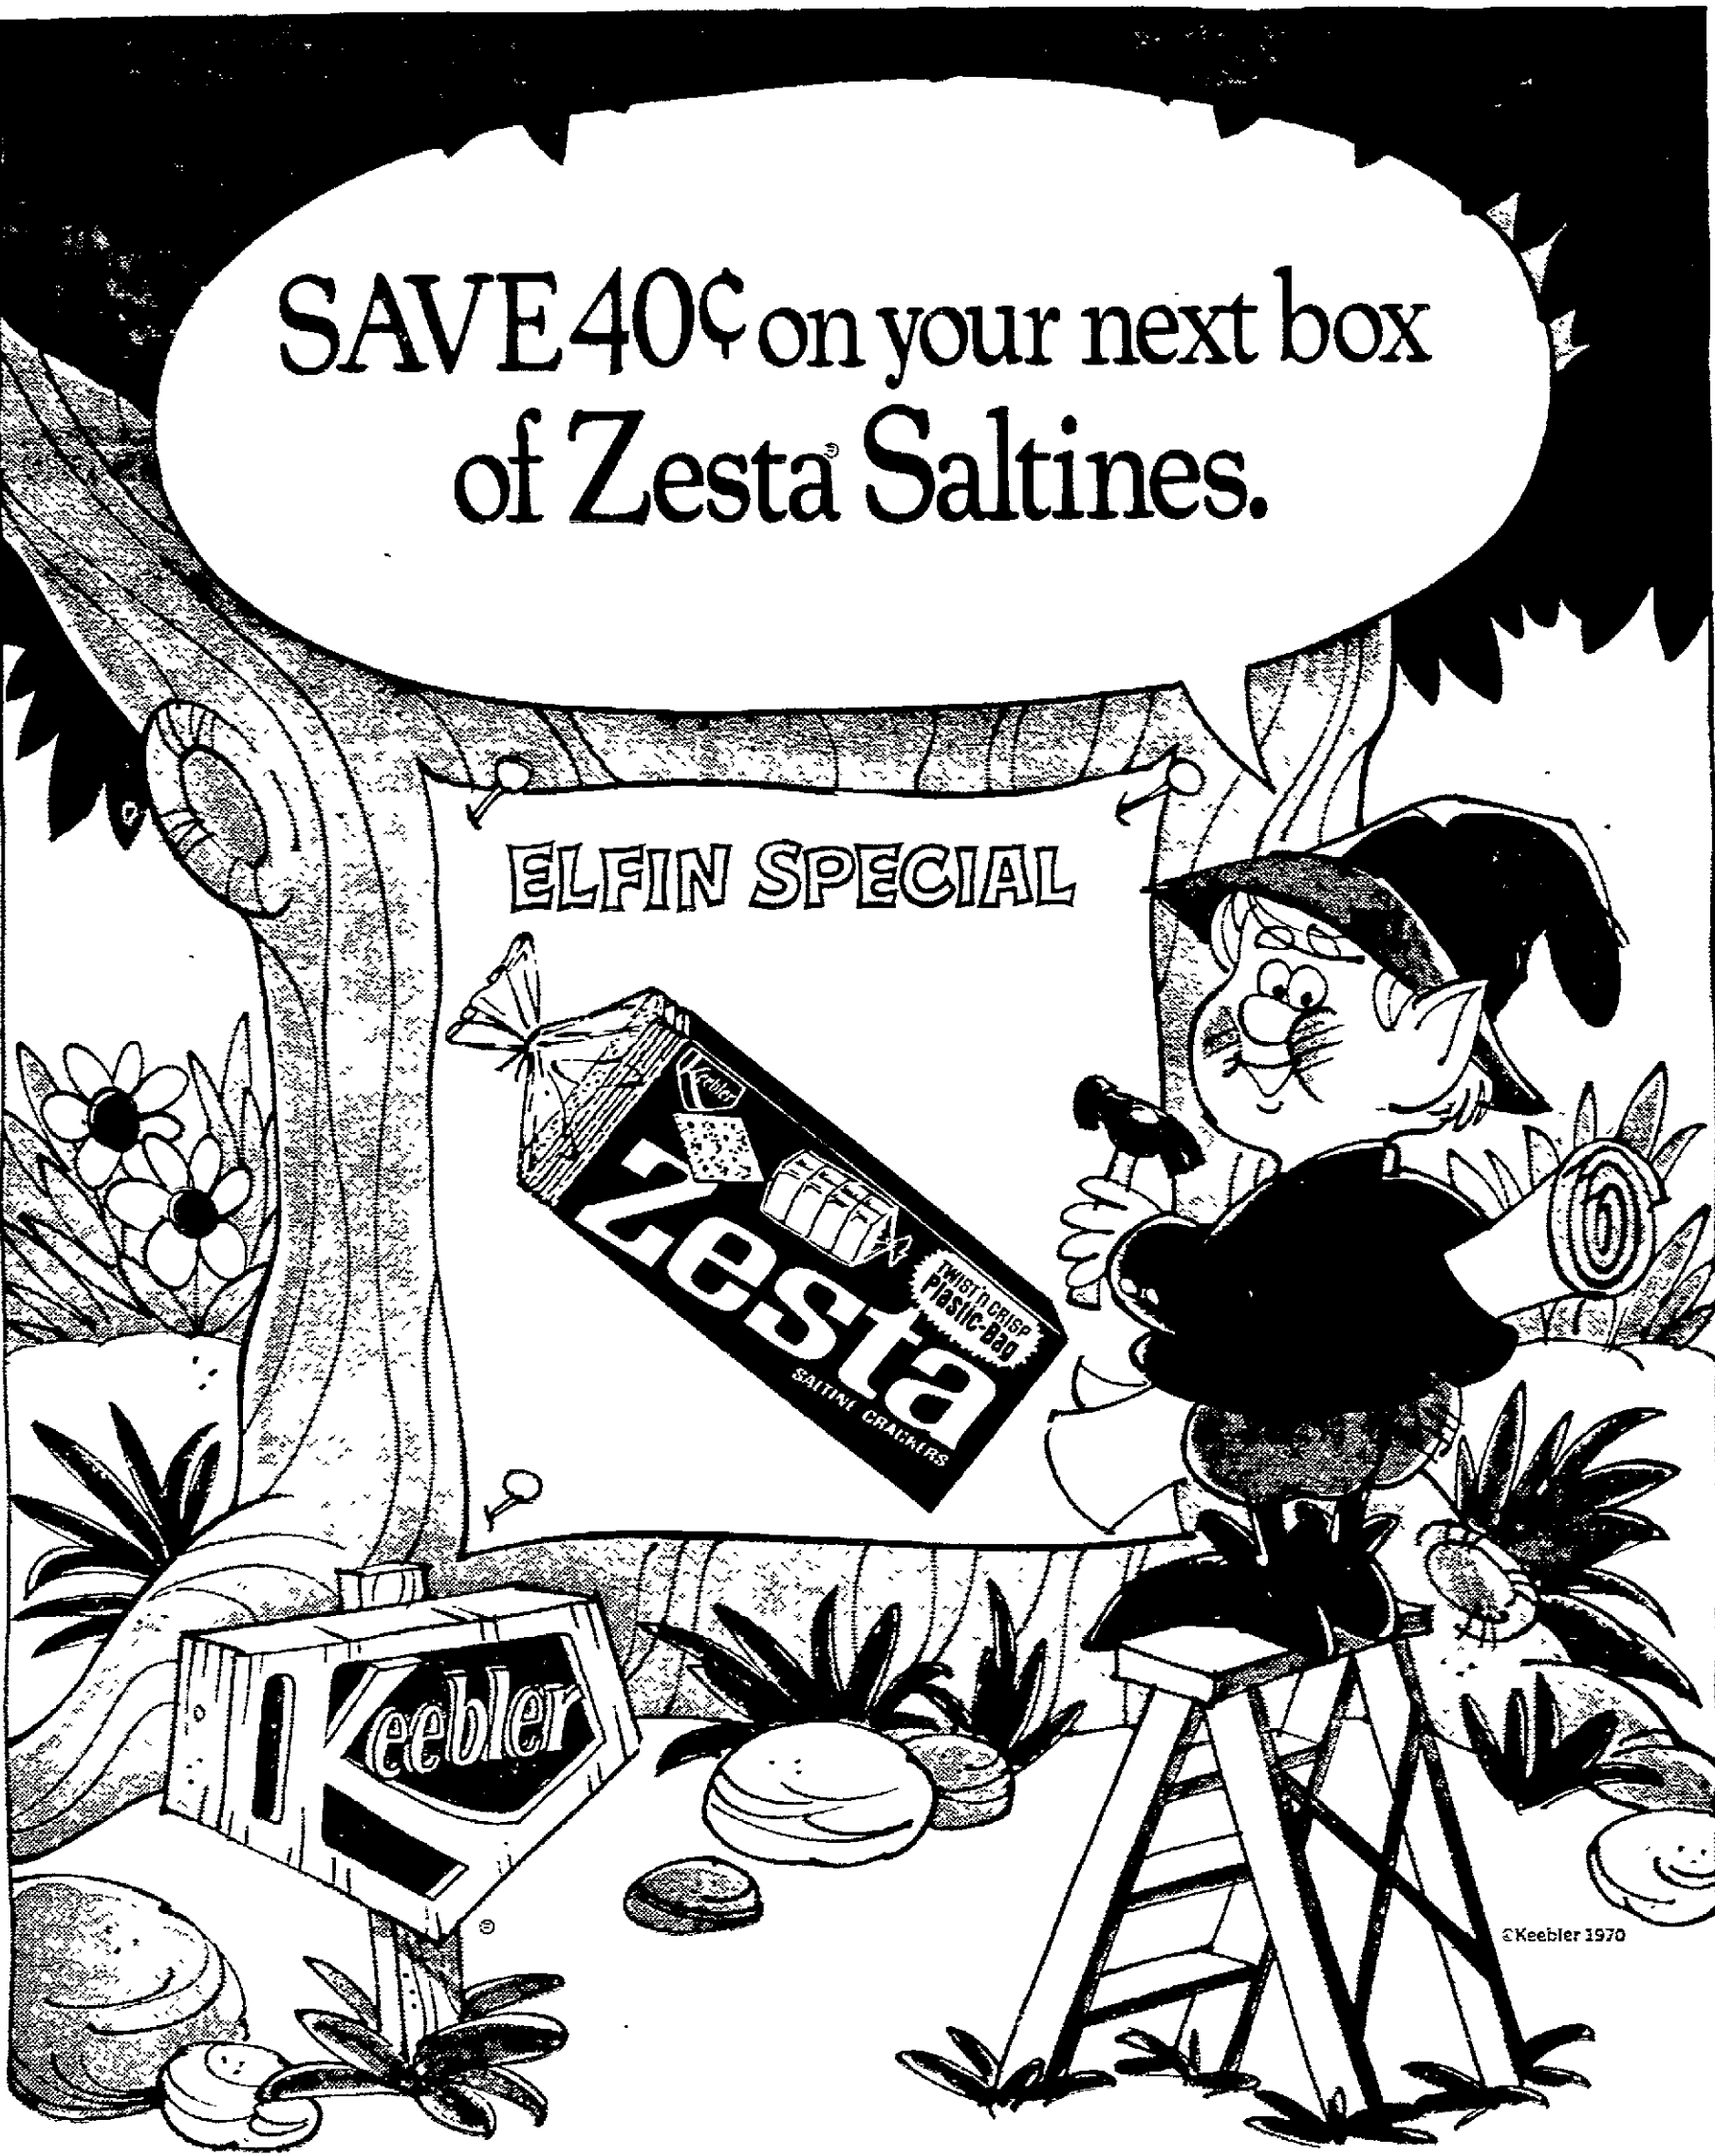

The favorite all-American dinner-party menu has been defined as a shrimp cocktail, steak and French fries, and apple pie a la mode. Cold Duck goes with every bite, from the spicy cocktail sauce to cold sweet ice cream.

It also goes with the cold cuts at midnight supper, with pickles and hard-boiled eggs, and hot dogs.

Or all by itself, when you feel like something festive but not too strong. It's for any time you want what a connoisseur once described as "that marvelous thing between ice water and fire water" — a pleasant glass of wine.

Pasta Dishes Make Excellent Variety

Then there is the manicotti type, big and fat tubular pasta that makes excellent stuffers. Cooked first in quantities of boiling water, the manicotti are stuffed with a mixture of ricotta cheese, Parmesan cheese, prosciutto ham and seasonings. Arranged in a baking dish, they are covered with a cream sauce lightly spiced with tomato paste.

Fusilli a Filetto di Pomodoro is the Italian name for the dish made with spaghetti pasta that has a crinkly twist to it. This recipe is true Italian and is fun to eat and easy to prepare. The tomatoes in the recipe may be either the canned variety or fresh.

The familiar elbow macaroni goes into the Macaroni Spinach Tortine, which is served in robust squares for dinner or halved for finger foods of the hors d'oeuvres class. Another favorite... macaroni seashells... is used in a stew with Italian flavor and the spirals make a fine choice to combine with carefully cooked beef cubes sauced with a mixture that uses onion gravy mix, canned water chestnuts and pimiento.

An important note is that each of these recipes is a surprise in keeping the budget down as well as making unusually good eating.

BAKED FARFALLE

AND OLIVES

Fine dry bread crumbs

1 1/2 tablespoons salt

4 quarts boiling water

12 ounces farfalle

or egg noodle bows

2 tablespoons butter

or margarine

1 cup freshly

grated Parmesan cheese

1 cup diced Swiss

1 cup diced Cheddar

Thin White Sauce

stuffed olives

Grease shallow 3-quart baking dish and coat with bread

Add 1 1/2 tablespoons salt to

rapidly boiling water. Gradually add farfalle so that

ly, until tender. Drain in colander.

Toss with butter, then Parmesan cheese. Add Swiss and Cheddar cheeses and chopped olives; toss lightly.

Turn half the mixture into prepared dish; top with half the White Sauce. Repeat layers. Sprinkle grated Parmesan cheese or bread crumbs

on top, if desired. Bake in 350 degree oven 25 minutes. Garnish with sliced olives. Recipe makes six servings.

THIN WHITE SAUCE

3 tablespoons butter or

margarine

3 tablespoons flour

3/4 cups milk

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon pepper

Dash mace

Melt butter in saucepan;

blend in flour. Add milk

gradually; cook, stirring con-

one minute. Add salt, pepper

BAKED STUFFED

MANICOTTI

cheese (about 2 1/2 pounds)

3/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

1/4 pound finely

chopped prosciutto

1/2 cup chopped

Italian parsley

2 egg yolks,

beaten

2 tablespoons milk

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon white

Cream Sauce

2 tablespoons salt

6 quarts boiling

water

8 ounces manicotti

(16 pieces)

Grated Parmesan cheese

To prepare filling, mix together ricotta cheese, 3/2 cup

sley, egg yolks, milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt and the pepper

Chill.

Prepare Cream Sauce,

given below. Pour small amount of sauce into two 13 x

9 x 2-inch baking pans.

Add 2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add manicotti so that water continues to boil. Cook,

uncovered, stirring occasional-

off 3/4 of the water; add enough cold water to stop

for handling.

Lift one manicotti from water; using a teaspoon, table

knife or pastry tube, stuff

with cheese mixture and place in baking pan. (Manicotti

MUST be removed from water and stuffed one at a time, in order to keep them moist for easy handling and filling.)

Repeat, using remaining manicotti and cheese filling.

Manicotti should be arranged side by side in a single layer and should fill the pan.

Pour remaining sauce on top. Cover with foil and bake in 350 degree oven 30 minutes.

Uncover and sprinkle Parmesan cheese over all; broil lightly under broiler. Recipe

makes eight servings.

NOTE: Turn this into a delightful hot hors d'oeuvre by cutting manicotti in half before stuffing. Recipe makes 32

appetizers.

MANICOTTI

1/2 cup chopped

1/2 cup butter

1/2 cup flour

1 1/2 teaspoons salt

1/4 teaspoon white pepper

1 1/2 cups chicken

broth

2 cups light cream

1 cup milk

3 tablespoons tomato paste

In medium saucepan, saute

chopped onion in butter until

flour gradually; add salt and

chicken broth, light cream and milk. Stir, stirring constantly, until sauce just boils.

Remove from heat, then blend in tomato paste. Recipe makes about 4 1/2 cups sauce.

FUSILLI A FILETTO

DI POMIDORE

3 cups diced

1/4 cup butter or

margarine

1 cup diced pro-

1 can (35 ounces)

plum tomatoes

Salt and pepper

2 tablespoons salt

6 quarts boiling

water

1 pound fusilli or

In Dutch oven or large heavy saucepan saute onions

in butter over medium heat until golden. Add prosciutto;

cook 10 minutes. Stir in tomatoes, mash. Simmer covered 15 minutes; uncover and cook 20 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Add 2 tablespoons salt to

rapidly boiling water. Gradually add fusilli so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Serve with sauce. Recipe

makes eight servings.

Brewers Make No Rash Promises

Dave Bristol Expects No Major Deal

"You can't trade yourself into a pennant," said Milwaukee Brewer manager Dave Bristol here Tuesday as he explained the purpose of his club's youth movement.

Bristol pointed out that the Brewers are essentially a young club, especially the pitching staff.

Occasionally, it's possible to make a highly advantageous deal, according to Bristol, but basically "you've got to build your own."

Bristol cited Baltimore as an example of what home-grown (farm system) players can accomplish. He admitted that the trade for Frank Robinson helped put the finishing touches on a great club, but for the most part the Orioles are farm club graduates.

In answer to a hypothetical question (Would the Brewers be willing to give up three young regulars in return for super star Frank Howard?), Bristol said he doubts that he would give up that much talent. "Besides," added the quick-on-the-draw manager, "I don't think Bob Short would trade him. He's too big a gate attraction."

Talking Trades

Bristol emphasized, however, that the Brewers haven't closed the door on other trade possibilities and admitted that they're talking to two clubs currently about potential deals.

The Brewer pilot pointed to infielders (of the shortstop and second base type) and pitchers as the top current needs.

Bristol, however, expressed confidence that his club on opening day, 1971, will be better than last year's version. He cited "better quality" and more solid positions. "We may not plateau as much this year," he added.

Bristol's starting infield will feature Harper at third, Bobby Pena ("an unsung hero") at shortstop, Ted Kubiak at second and Mike Hegan ("he'll hit better than 230 this season") at first. In the outfield will be Walton, Dave May ("his average wasn't big but he played well for us" in the partial season as a Brewer) and new acquisition Carl Taylor.

"We couldn't get Boog Powell, so we at least got his half-brother (Taylor)," quipped Bristol. Taylor, who can also catch and play first base, has never played 100 games in the same position before, said Bristol.

Bob Tillman will back up Roof in the catching department, said Bristol.

Asked to name his top starting pitchers, Bristol ticked off the names of Marty Patt, Lew Krausse, Skip Lockwood and Bill Parsons. The latter, who spent most of last season in tour of Wisconsin with other service, is leading the Puerto Rican winter league in strikeouts and is considered quite a prospect by Bristol. The manager expects Dick Ellsworth, pulled the game out for Illinois, now 2-0 in the conference and 7-2 over-all.

Sherrod Misses

Wisconsin lost its last chance at victory when Clarence Sherrod missed a shot as the Badgers trailed 80-78 with 49 seconds left.

Illinois got the rebound, and in the remaining time UW fouled Howat twice in efforts to get the ball.

Sherrod finished the game with 20 points and Glen Richards added 20, including the team's last three baskets.

Sherrod moved up to fifth on the UW scoring list in the game by improving his career total to 1,091 points and passing Chuck Nagel and Ken Siebel.

Expects No Contract Problems

Harper Sets No 1971 Goals

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Slugging star Tommy Harper reiterated Tuesday he doesn't expect any serious problems when he sits down with Milwaukee brass to discuss his 1971 contract, but the Brewer third baseman was having second thoughts about some of his earlier press statements on negotiations.

Harper, in Appleton as part of a Brewer promotional tour, was quoted Monday in a Milwaukee publication as saying he didn't know who to approach concerning contractual talks since general manager Marvin Milkes had resigned.

"All I want to know is who do I talk to. I'm not going to go all over Milwaukee trying to find out, although I thought they would let me know," Harper had said when he arrived in Milwaukee from his Berkeley, Calif., home.

The gruff tone of those statements was considerably softened Tuesday at the Conway Motor Hotel. In fact, Harper issued a form of apology.

Embarrass People

"I don't really like to discuss contracts in public," he began, "because it's a business-type thing, and I think you embarrass people when you start talking about negotiations."

Concerning the earlier story, Harper clarified, "I'm not knocking the sports writer, because I did say the things that I was quoted as saying."

"But I just think I made a mistake," he emphasized. "I should have talked to Mr. Selig (Brewer President) first to see what he had in mind."

"Of course at that time," he pointed out, "I didn't know he was the one I was supposed to talk to. He let me know the following day that I was supposed to talk to him," Harper said.

Of the negotiations themselves, the Brewers' MVP stated, "I'm supposed to talk to Mr. Selig sometime this week, and we'll get it straightened out. I don't anticipate any problems."

Aside from his concern over the unsigned contract, Harper apparently has had little else to occupy his thoughts during the off-season. "I haven't done anything this winter," he admitted.

Many players worry about effective starters, and Mike excess poundage after the season is finished, but Harper has a journeyman son in the never had a problem in that Oakland Athletics' package for respect. "I don't lose any weight in the spring on purpose," he explained. "I play

Weeklong Tour

The Fox Cities stops were parts of the statewide, weeklong tour the Brewers are taking to promote baseball at County Stadium. Selig noted that his group is actually doing "two winters worth of work in one," since Milwaukee didn't get its franchise until six days before the beginning of the 1970 season.

"For a sports franchise to be successful on a long-term basis, it must operate on an area principle," Selig indicated, adding that the effective range of drawing power must be 100 to 200 miles. "For the Milwaukee mistake," he emphasized, "I franchise to be successful, we should have talked to Mr. Selig (Brewer President) first to see what he had in mind."

Selig added later that recent figures from such franchises as Cincinnati and Atlanta indicated that as much as 50 per cent of the patronage comes from outside the immediate metropolitan areas.

The Brewer president envisions a steady growth in club attendance — then relative stability — in contrast to the more meteoric gate performance of the "Braves" era in Milwaukee. A pennant year could bring the Braves to a 1,500,000 - to 2,000,000 total, he predicted.

Selig intimated that he expects the Brewers to operate in the black soon. The 1,000,000 attendance mark is roughly the break-even point, Selig noted.

"Come down and see us, and we'll be back to see you many times," said Selig to his Rotary club audience.

Bristol recalled that when he managed the Topeka team in 1961 — and had Tommy Harper on his roster — Appleton was on the club's Three-I league itinerary. He told about the time he and Earl Weaver (who managed the Foxes) were ejected from the same game at Goodland Field.

Get Acquainted

Referring to the 1970 season, Bristol said "it took time to get acquainted with the players and to get them to do what we wanted. The players worked hard and showed great dedication and character."

Eight players — Tommy Harper, Ted Kubiak, Jim Hegan, Lew Krausse, Ken Sanders, Dave Baldwin, Phil Roof and Danny Walton — were members of the entourage and Bristol referred to them during his Rotary club talk. Bristol said Roof sacrificed himself for the

Wilkins Is Top All-Star; East Edged, 108-107

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO (AP)—While Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor was 21 points, followed by Chicago's Bob Love, also of the West. Tuesday night, little Lenny Wilkins sat on the West bench. But newsmen voted him the most valuable player of the 21st National Basketball Association East-West All-Star game. The crowd of 14,378 and a national television audience watched Wilkins, 6-foot-1 and smaller than 27 other All-Stars, rally the West with driving layups in the second and fourth quarters in the 108-107 victory. Wilkins led all scorers with 33 points, followed by Alcindor's 21 and 16 by Chicago's Bob Love, also of the West. The East was paced by Atlanta's Lou Hudson and New York's Willis Reed, with 14 points each. "Lenny Wilkins never surprised me," said East Coach Red Holzman of the 33-year-old Seattle player-coach who made 11 of 11 field goal attempts and 5 of 5 free throws. West Coach Larry Costello of Milwaukee said the little Wilkins came out with 3½ minutes remaining because "The East had two big guards and I wanted a better matchup." "That's the coach's prerogative," said Wilkins. "I didn't want to come out but no player ever does in a tight situation." Asked whether Coach Wilkins would have pulled out player Wilkins, he said, "I'll know better if I ever get to coach the All-Star team."

Holzman of New York and Costello were chosen because their teams are conference leaders.

Joe Schouten Named 1971 Winner of the Red Smith Award

The top state award at the annual Red Smith Sports Award Banquet next Tuesday will go to a business man who has been promoter of sports events of all kinds for a span of 30 years. Joseph Schouten, proprietor of Schouten Oil Co., Kaukauna, will receive the Red Smith Award at the dinner which is slated at the Country Aire Club. Ten other local awards will be presented to other individuals who have extended themselves in their various fields. The "Nice Guy" award in the form of their gold champagne bucket goes to Robert (Red) Wilson. Main speaker for the evening will be Marquette University basketball coach Al McGuire. Schouten, who is credited with sponsoring the first live radio broadcast of a sports event in the Valley, once was a baseball outfielder in Freedom. Besides playing he also took hold of the business needs of the operation. Starting from scratch, he promoted (in any way possible) and obtained property for a diamond, bleachers, backstop and all equipment. Schouten

MU Holds Off Irish

By BOB GREENE
MILWAUKEE (AP)—"Most of the things we wanted to accomplish we did," said Johny Dee, Notre Dame basketball coach, Tuesday night. But Marquette captured the 12th of the season against Notre Dame losses, its 24th straight over two seasons and its 50th in a row, at the Milwaukee Arena. Dean Meminger and Jim Chones' easy layup. "We got 16 more shots than they did," moaned Dee. "We outrebanded them, 35-34, and we forced them into six more turnovers than we had. We felt as though we beat ourselves."

Both Dee and Marquette Coach Al McGuire pointed to a play by Chones, the 6-foot-11 sophomore center, at the close of the first half as the key to the game. "We had come back from 15 points down and we could have cut their lead even more," Dee said. "Then Bob Lackey grabs a rebound and puts it back in at the buzzer. That gives them a 15-point lead again."

After falling behind by 17, points, 47-30, the Irish started dominating play, finally finding the range. With Carr doing most of the damage, added mainly by Carr, Carr sliced. Marquette's advantage to five points, 65-60, with 1:27 remaining in the game. Hits Gift Tosses Then Meminger, who finished with 19 points, dropped in two.

Sanders Hopes For Big Year

relations director, put the 'bull-dog' tag on Sanders for his fierce competitiveness. "I guess Tom Collins — Brewer broadcaster via Menasha — dressed it up a little by adding 'toy,'" Sanders said.

The gummy pre-law graduate of St. Louis University stands 5-11 and weighs 180 — not big by major league standards.

Sanders, who began his professional career in 1960, was switched to relief status in 1964 by Boston manager Haywood Sullivan.

"He thought I was more suited for relief pitching and after I won nine straight got my first crack at the big leagues," Sanders recalled.

Since the switch he has had only one start and that coming against the California Angels.

As in the case with most big league relief artists, Sanders has adapted to being able to get warm with 10 or less pitches in the bull pen.

"I think all top relievers have adapted to preparing to pitch in the late innings. You know how to prepare yourself ... this is the key to relieving," Sanders said.

Sanders' out pitch is his slider. "I'm a sinker-slider pitcher. I throw an occasional change, but the slider is still my best pitch," he added.

Credits Coaches
Pitching coach Wes Stock and manager Dave Bristol were credited by their bull pen ace for playing a big part in his success.

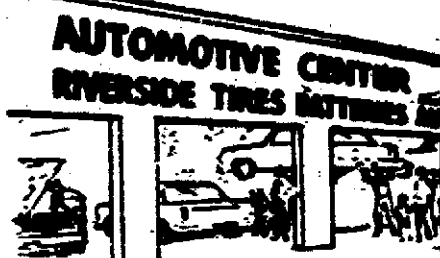

"We helped me quite a bit this year. This time when I came up—I'd been up and down before—he told me to quit nibbling and throw the ball over the plate rather than trying to hit the corners. He gave me a lot of confidence," Sanders said. Sanders said, "Dave gave me the chance to pitch and this built my confidence."

"I guess you might say I had an 'at 'em' ball working for me ... they were hitting the ball 'at 'em' Sanders said. Summing up Sanders said, "Last season I was tabbed as a poor man's Parranoski. My goal this season is to be a rich man's Parranoski."

McGinnis-Led Hoosiers Romp

CHICAGO (AP) — Indiana coach Lou Watson might be playing possum in the Big Ten basketball race.

Watson's Hoosiers stormed to a second straight Big Ten basketball victory Tuesday night, drowning highly regarded Minnesota 89-73 with sophomore sensation George McGinnis leading the way with 31 points.

"We played the best defensive game I've seen in a long time," said Watson. "We didn't play as good in the second half as we did the first half, but we didn't have to."

By no means. The Hoosiers rambled to a 53-29 lead in the first half and then coasted home as the big battle between McGinnis and Jim Brewer—Minnesota's super soph—failed to materialize.

While McGinnis took command of the game, Brewer was limited to 14 points. Ollie Shannon paced the Minnesota attack with 24 points.

Home Advantage
Unlike Saturday's opening round of Big Ten play when four visiting teams were victorious in five games, all four home teams won Tuesday night.

Joining the Hoosiers were Purdue, Illinois and Michigan State. Purdue also made it two straight but had to struggle to whip Northwestern 82-74 and Illinois outlasted Wisconsin 84-82 for its second straight triumph.

Michigan State balanced its record with an 84-81 victory over defending champion Iowa which slumped to a second straight defeat.

Purdue blew a 13-point first half lead as the lead changed hands 15 times and the game was tied 11 times in the second half. But the Boilermakers went into a freeze late in the game.

Irish Romp Past Stockbridge Quint In Non-League Play

FREEDOM — Joe Vandenberg scored 24 points in the first three quarters of action, as the Freedom Irish went on to trounce the Stockbridge Indians, 87-50, in a non-conference game here Tuesday night.

With the win, the Irish boosted their overall record to 2-2 while the hapless Indians slipped to 0-10.

By the end of the third stanza, Freedom had built a comfortable, 67-35, lead. A jay-vee regular, Dan Greenwood, had a fine fourth quarter as he swished five buckets.

The other Irish standout was Bob Garvey, who meshed 14. Freedom hit on 42 field goals in 89 tries for 47 per cent.

Tom Dann paced the Stockbridge quint as he totaled 15 points. Andy Hemauer popped in 13.

STOCKBRIDGE (9-7-10-15-20) T. Dann 15, Gasser 10, Benke 10, D. Dann 11, Hemauer 5, Dwyer 10, P. Dann 10, Gerhart 10, TOTALS 22-77, FT-4-6.

Larry Krueger Rolls 266-664

Larry Krueger blasted a 266 game and a 664 series to sweep honors in the Appleton Coated Paper Company League at the Super Bowl Tuesday night.

With the high game, Krueger earned an ABC Century Award as he was better than 100 pins over his average. Larry has a 159 average.

Hod Deltgen was runnerup in series for the Coated League with a 591 count.

Jim Bauman smacked a 652 series, which included a 245 game, to set the pace in the Allis-Chalmers League at Sabre Lanes last night. Dick Boyer had the only other honor score in the league as he rolled a 597 set.

Wayne Kilsdonk sent the pins flying in the American League at Jerry's Lanes, Kimberly, last night as he blasted a 252 game and 646 series. His brother Jim also had a good night by hitting a 602 set while Len Tessen smacked 588 and Mel Biese had 579.

Bruce Lieferman had a 243 game and Bill Marsh hit a 644 series to divide honors in the Continental League at the Twin City Bowl. Marsh had a 234 game with the top series and Jim Harrmann recorded a 599 set.

Rolls 626 Series
In the Continental Men's League at Jerry's Lanes, Kimberly, Tuesday, Gene Vandenberg led the way with a 626 series.

Al Laux topped the action in the Major Scratch League at Hahn's Lanes Tuesday night by rolling a 626 series. High game honors went to Chuck Bayer for a 237 game and he finished with a 575 series.

Runnerup in series for the Major loop was Bill Noffke with a 603 which included a 232 game while Bud Rector had 232-585, Stan Prue 581, Dick Frakes 235-580, "Kat" Kassube 579, Kayo Kruse 232.

The Reetz Supper Club team had a 1,016 high team game. Neil Jadin topped the Businessmen's League at the Colonial Lanes, Freedom, as he hit a 604 series Tuesday night.

"It's the best we've looked in before Marshfield rallied for a long time," pronounced an elated coach Tom Alby after his Fox Valley Campus Cyclones with 8-08 left in the first half whipped UW-Marshfield, 102-77, at the Xavier High School gym Tuesday night.

It was the third win in four starts for Fox Valley in the Northern Division of the Wisconsin Collegiate Conference with the Cyclones for the first, and also evened the Cyclones' three minutes of the second overall record at 6-6. The losing half, shaving the deficit from 10 Marauders are now 1-4 in points to seven at 58-51. But league play and 6-7 in all then Fox Valley opened up its games.

Fox Valley trained only once in the contest, that in the first 59. The outcome was never in 12 seconds when the visitors' doubt down the stretch.

Bill Wilson scored on the fast break The Cyclones quickly lineup for Fox Valley after retaliated for an 8-2 advantage missing two games with an injury and netted a team-high 17 points. Other major cogs offensively were Ron Haack and Rob Ristau, 15 points apiece, and Dan Minkebig 13.

Ristau hauled down 14 rebounds and Minkebig 10 as Fox Valley held a slim 43-41 edge on the boards for the evening.

Husky John Wagner collected 24 points to lead Marshfield, while Jim Bartelt added 16.

Fox Valley shot a solid 52 per cent from the floor on 39 baskets in 75 shots, compared to Marshfield's 43.6 per cent on 31 of 71.

Amish Exempt From School Law

The decision of the Wisconsin Supreme Court that the Amish people are exempt from the state law that requires children to attend school until they are 16 comes as something of a surprise. Frankly, we are uncertain as to the merits of the decision.

The court ruled that the school attendance requirement crossed the boundaries of the separation of church and state, strict in our Constitution, since the Amish are religiously opposed to sending children to school beyond the eighth grade. It is true that, except for health hazards, there are no public requirements of courses, classroom sizes or curriculum in other parochial and private schools. But the aim of graduates of the Roman Catholic and Lutheran schools often is similar to that of the graduate of a public school — higher education in one form or another. There also is the competition for jobs. But this does not affect the Amish child who is brought up to stay at home on the family farm, marry only within his own religion and bring up his children in the same way. Apparently few break away from the traditions. The contact with the outside world is severely limited but there certainly is a cohesion of family life among the Amish. We must suspect that the judges may even have been subconsciously influenced by the fact that Amish youngsters present no problems to society. They are not found in taverns, smoking pot and creating vandalism.

However, the one dissenting judge, Justice Heffernan, argued that all children in the state should be entitled to equal educational opportunities as well as responsibilities and the Amish have been specifically denied this by the court decision.

The decision must have been a difficult one. Now we'll have to see how it works out.

That Military Aid to Greece

It appears that officials in Washington have been fooled by the military leaders in Greece.

When the junta seized power from a duly elected government in Athens, the United States withheld large amounts of military aid, although some was continued. The implication was that the United States disapproved of the junta and was not inclined to restore the military aid until it had assurances that moves would be made to return to constitutional government.

But last fall the aid was resumed and there now is confusion on a number of issues.

The junta quietly gloated that the resumption must mean that it was once more in the good graces of the United States. There seem to be reasons to believe that Premier George Papadopoulos, in secret talks with United States Ambassador Henry Tasca, had given assurances that progressive moves would be made in 1971. At least that seems to have been the impression gained in Washington. But a State Department spokesman, in a reply to a letter signed by 20 Greek publishers and journalists now living outside Greece for obvious reasons, insisted that the resumption of military aid was "based entirely on considerations which concern the security of the United States."

There also is speculation that the aid resumption might have been tied to a Greek agreement to permit our use of their military bases in case the United States felt it necessary to take action in Jordan. Whether this is true or not, the time would seem to be past.

In a recent speech Premier Papadopoulos flatly said there would not be 1971 and toward constitutional reform in moves to not until he thought the time was right in any case. It also has been suggested that perhaps Ambassador Tasca might find another position since he is disapproving and disappointed.

Obviously the internal machinery of another government isn't really the business of the United States. We have generally disapproved of breaking diplomatic and trade relations when we disagree with the way another government has come to power. But military aid is something else again. The Greeks really may need our military equipment in order to hold up their responsibilities in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But it also is clear that the equipment also can serve to keep a dictatorial and unpopular regime in power.

Taxation Coming to Vietnam

As tax time rolls around again for most Americans, it may be interesting to know that the Vietnamese don't like to pay taxes any more than we do. But their system is so lax and inefficient a great many of them simply don't.

The rural peasants pay no direct taxes to the central government although they may to local officials and sometimes to the Viet Cong as well. But the government officials are not as concerned about the generally poor peasant as they are about the Vietnamese who are making profits from the war. Some of the profit is illegal and comes through the productive and busy black market but even illegal profits should be taxed. A door to door campaign has been started by government officials to find the tax dodgers.

But a report by a joint United States-Vietnam team in 1969 reported that "Vietnam began the war with a basically unproductive, inequitable and inefficient system; it probably will end the war with much the same system."

There are a number of countries where a similar problem exists. Many Latin American systems are inefficient. Even the French for years successfully evaded a lot of taxes they owed.

Probably Americans are no more willing to pay taxes and certainly appropriations which require referendums have indicated the growing opposition to the bigger bite. Maybe we're not any more honest than others either. But we've grown up with the system and generally it has been efficiently conducted — and enforced.

Jams Will be Thing of Past

NEW YORK (AP) — Elevated pedestrian walkways and grade-separated, one-way street systems will eliminate traffic jams in the cities of the future, according to J. Edward Martin, partner in the architectural and planning firm of A. C. Martin and Associates.

Purpose of the elevated walkways is to separate people from cars. The one-way, grade-separated streets system, serving four-to-six-block superblock areas, will keep traffic moving 100 percent of the time.

Four Fox Cities students at St. Norbert College who receive distinguished military awards for excellence in both scholastic and military fields were Daryl Brost and James Weber, both of Appleton, Lee Stadtmiller, Menasha, and John Renn, Kaukauna.

Four Appleton bankers were to attend the Wisconsin Bankers Association in Milwaukee. They were Gilbert Beglinger, O. A. Hansen, M. E. Olson, and Gilbert J. Rehen.

Mrs. W. B. Thompson was the winner of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycee) Distinguished Citizen Award and James N. Retson the winner of the organization's Distinguished Service Award. Mrs. Thompson was the first woman to ever receive the citizen's award and it was presented to her for her contributions to community welfare, leadership and personal development. Retson, Huntley School principal, was cited for his work with the PTA, experimental classroom projects and his work with the Appleton YMCA.

Revolution in Coal Country

Site of Mine Disaster Is Natural for Nixon Program

BY KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

Clay and Leslie Counties have buried their dead, the 38 miners killed in Kentucky's pre-New Year coal dust explosion. The fatal mines, Finley Nos. 15 and 16, are closed, and all the politicians — state, Federal and Congressional — have held or will shortly hold their inevitable investigations. But none of the expected new mine safety programs and regulations can end the impoverished Cumberland Plateau's harsh dependence on small-scale "truck mines" as a principal source of employment.

There is a bigger story taking shape, though. Vice President Nixon's proposed Family Assistance Plan, a socio-economic revolution may be approaching the Cumberland Plateau, and its impact on coal, grime, tradition-bound East Kentucky is potentially far more important than further mine safety developments.

Newsman paying a quick, post-disaster visit to the snowbound mine might not have realized it, but the surrounding highlands — the "Three Forks" headwaters of the Kentucky River — constitute one of America's foremost economic and cultural geographic museums. In the 1960 census, Kentucky's 5th Congressional District, which encompasses most of the primitive plateau, had the second-lowest median income in the United States and lagged behind every other district in its farm operator level-of-living index.

With little choice, many local breadwinners work for either the Federal anti-poverty program or the low-wage, non-union "truck mine" (transient) coal operators. Leslie and Clay are coal counties right out of Tennessee Ernie Ford, being located between the blood-and-whiskey mining town of Harlan and Hazard mentioned in the descriptive lyrics of "Sixteen Tons."

Economic and cultural backwardness go hand in hand. From post-Revolutionary War settlement days until the Eighteen-Eighties, no road reached Hyden, the Leslie County seat. Goods were shipped up the Kentucky River from the Bluegrass lowlands. This isolation has left its cultural mark.

Few places in the U. S. can match the remote Clay and Leslie creeks — Thousand owning no slaves and disliking the rich lowlanders who did — sided with the North and thereafter with the GOP. Since then, Leslie and Clay Counties, along with neighboring Jackson and Owsley, have remained the most Republican bloc of counties in the nation.

Isolated enough so that their subsistence economy was little touched by the Great Depression, three of these counties were among the four in the U. S. to give Republican Alf Landon more than 80 percent of the vote against Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936. The Nixon-Agnew ticket won the usual GOP landslide victory in 1968.

Interested sociologists better hurry, though, the area may be on the verge of enormous change. The Federal Appalachia program, enacted in 1965, has already pumped $2.5 million into Clay and Leslie Counties. And this is a drop in the bucket compared to the funds that would flow from enactment of President Nixon's Family Assistance (welfare) Plan. Three-quarters of the families in Clay and Leslie Counties would be eligible for Federal assistance checks and, in many areas, local income would be doubled or tripled.

With this revolutionary infusion of money, demand for goods and services and housing would grow. Transportation would improve and spreading welfare would erode the will to accept dangerous, poor-paying jobs, pushing up wages and undercutting many of the "truck mine" operations now in existence.

President Nixon wanted to go to Hyden after the mine explosion, but could not because of the snow. He missed an opportunity of sorts, too, because the creekside shacks of the top Republican counties in the United States could be an effective stage for urging his program (especially upon doubtful Senate Finance Committee Republicans). Few parts of the nation would be more affected by its passage.

Bridge Costly

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state of Kentucky can attest to the cost of building bridges.

It paid $256,519 for construction of a railroad trestle over Interstate 75 near Georgetown. But, within four years the railroad abandoned its once-a-day freight train and the state then paid another $25,000 to have the bridge removed in the interest of highway safety.

In a detached view that is probably an encouraging development. The work of the legislature has steadily grown more complex and demanding. The challenges before the 1971 session that will formally begin its deliberations next week will be more serious than almost any that have gone before.

A study by the Legislative Reference Bureau gives a profile of the new legislature in the aggregate, with respect to its vigor as measured in composite chronological age, and with respect to its capacity as it can be measured by the degree of formal schooling of its typical member.

In the State Senate the average age of members will be 51 years, and in the Assembly, 44 years.

27 Went to College
In the Senate 27 of the 33 members have had some exposure to formal education at the college level. In the Assembly the ratio is a striking 71 out of 100 members.

It is not suggested here that college matriculation is necessarily a test of a man's ability to perform adequately or well in public office — including the legislature where qualities of mind and heart are as important as formal educational attainment.

Some of the best men who have ever contributed their talents to the legislative process, now and in earlier years, were utterly innocent of college experience. Some of the worst, and least effective, sometimes claimed the highest formal educational attainment.

Yet the legislature is intended to reflect the quality and character of its constituency. In modern life the fact of college experience tends to be equated with understanding and capacity — if not always with judgment and conscience and responsibility. The electorate is today better schooled than ever before. Whether that has improved it in a political sense may be arguable.

More Younger Members
It is also younger today, in median terms, than ever before since the earliest frontier days. It is appropriate, therefore, that there are fewer oldsters and more youngsters representing that constituency in Madison, for better or for worse. The purpose of the constitutional framework of government is to provide "representative" government.

But there are other important considerations involved in the changing profile of the legislator, reflecting the fundamental alteration of the role of the legislative politician in his life and times. But it has come about so gradually as to be misunderstood or overlooked by many persons.

When this reporter started watching its affairs from a front row seat in the press gallery — not so long ago as the life of institutions is measured — a legislative seat was an appropriate retirement berth for the aging local politician who had the respect of his neighbors and the leisure and the disposition to depart for work in Madison for five or six months at biennial intervals.

The legislature then was a kind of terminal experience for the local political leader. Today it tends to be a training center, an incubator, as suggested by the legislative background of most of the principal men now on the Wisconsin political stage.

The New Legislator

More significantly, the nature of legislative responsibility is fundamentally different today. Problems that could be imagined only dimly a generation and a half ago now pound at the doors of the chambers. Pressure groups have multiplied, every citizen from the underprivileged ghetto child to the ranking business executive has an infinitely greater stake in political decisions, and the legislative process has steadily lengthened until the state is today on the verge of a decision to make a seat in the legislature a fulltime assignment.

The merest glance at the volume and nature of the problems and demands and pressures and conflicts already visible for the inevitably prolonged 1971 state lawmaking deliberations makes the sensitive citizen wish, indeed, that he had even younger and more vigorous and more resolute and better trained men representing him in the Senate and Assembly.

There remains a curiously substantial public view that the legislature is a collection of underheads and mediocrities. Men and women have the right to view them as they please. But they have entrusted to these men more decisions of greater importance to their lives than did any of their forebears.

Strictly Personal

Question Is: Does God Believe in You?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

At about the same time, a month or so ago, a Boy Scout was being refused his Eagle badge, and a small child was ordered by the court to be returned from the couple who wanted to adopt her. In both cases, the reasons were "not believing in God."

Nothing could be sillier — or, basically, more irrelevant — than bestowing or withholding secular privileges because the recipient did or did not "believe in God," whatever that phrase may happen to mean.

A prelate at a conference I was attending once said to me, "If the Pope's Catholicism knew what the Average Conception of God was, he might very well consider him an atheist." This is how much people's ideas of God can vary, even within the same nominal religion.

Anybody can say he "believes in God"; say he can think he believes in God; it costs nothing, and makes them feel good. And, under this cover, the most ungodly and most unchristian acts can be committed with a clear conscience. History is distressingly replete with such incidences, not the least of which were the infamous "Crusades" which violated everything Jesus taught, in the name of Christendom.

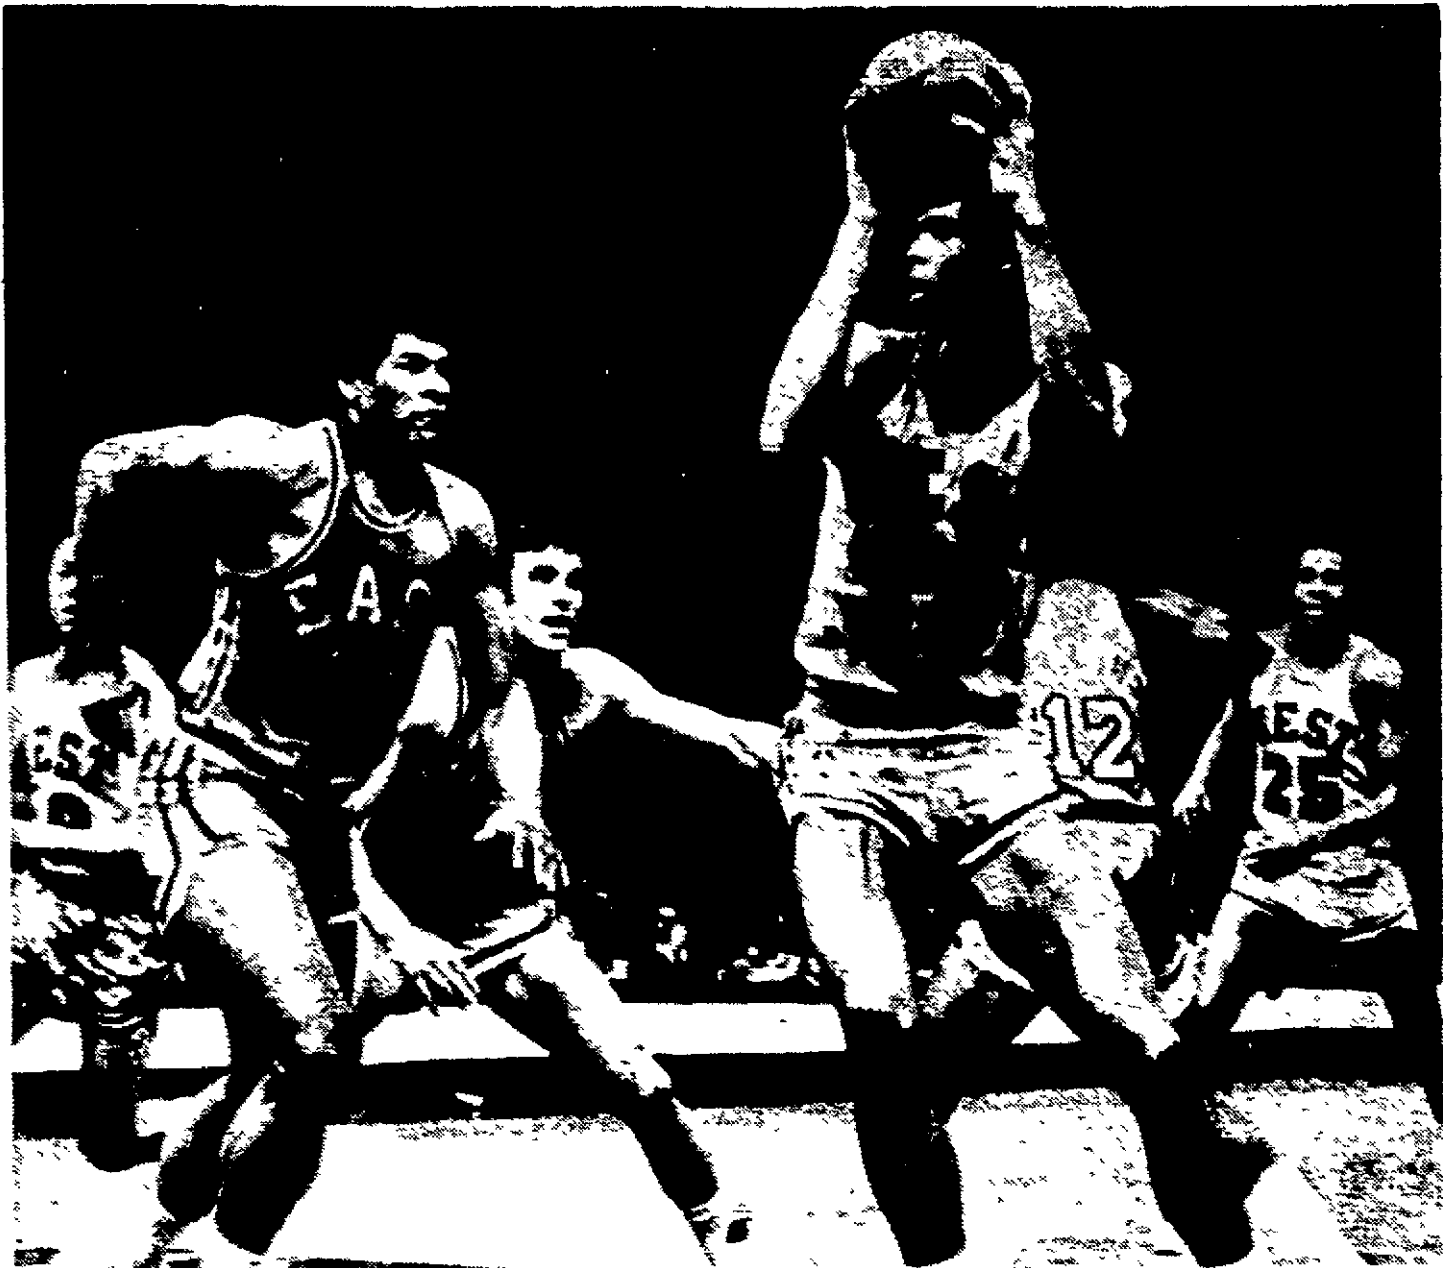

Conversely, many who would call themselves "unbelievers" live and work in the spirit of brotherhood that sanctifies their unbelief.

Jesus understood this perfectly, in his parable of the man with two sons, who went to the first and said, "Son, go and work in the vineyard today." The son answered, "I will not," but afterward he repented and went. He went to the second son and asked the same; the son said, "I go, Sir," but did not go. "Which of the two," asked Jesus, "did the will of his father?"

It is by their fruits that we know them, not by their professions of belief. The Eagle Scout who declared himself an unbeliever (possibly because his parents were) had shown himself, by his conduct and deeds, to be a "religious" person, whether or not he believed in it. And the couple in New Jersey, who wanted to adopt the child they had cared for since birth, showed "loving-kindness" all too rare these days.

It is not a question of whether you believe in God so much as it is a question of whether God believes in you — that is, do you live your life in a way that a loving and just God would approve of? This is the essence of the religious attitude, not the forms or the prayers or the canons of belief; and this is precisely the attitude Jesus tried to bring to the legalistic and ritualistic Judaism of his time.

Milwaukee Bucks' star Lew Alcindor (33) attracts a crowd as he has the ball in the NBA all-star game Tuesday in San Diego. Converging on Alcindor are East players Wes Unseld (41), Dave DeBusschere (22) and Jo Jo White (12). Lenny Wilkens (19), named the games most valuable, and Chet Walker (25) also were involved in the action. The West stars won, 108-107, as Alcindor paced a late surge. (AP Wirephoto)

"You've got to be tough with the club owners to get anything," said Kapp, talking to newsmen after appearing Tuesday before a federal grand jury investigating the National Football League.

The Boston Patriots' passer had nothing to say, however, about his testimony before the grand jury.

Harper Expects No Problems On Contract between 160 and 170 pounds and that's my weight all year round."

Harper hit a solid .296 in 1970, crashed 31 home runs and drove in 82 runs in his best performance as a major leaguer. Can he equal or surpass those efforts in 1971?

"I didn't set any goals for the past season, and I'm not going to set any for this season," he asserted. "I just go out and do my best every day. Maybe that sounds corny but that's what I do."

Harper finds it somewhat ironic that he is showered with attention now since he had a top year offensively.

"Most of the baseball statistics are based on offensive categories, and what one considers a good year, they always go back to batting average," he reminded.

"But I've been a major leaguer for nine years now," he went on, "and I feel I've had other good years. This year I hit .296 and everybody says I'm a heckuva ball player. (Harper's previous top average was .278 at Cincinnati in 1966).

"I've felt I've been a good ball player all-around. Maybe not what others expected, but I think I've done a fairly good job in the majors. Last year I hit .296 and picked up in home runs. I was a year I didn't expect," he added. "It just came about."

Although he spent most of his time at third base last year, Harper is also accustomed to playing the outfield. He says it doesn't matter to him where he plays.

"If the ball club feels I want to be in the outfield, no problem. I'll play the outfield because I think that the contract I signed says as a baseball player, not as a third-baseman or second-baseman."

"That's the manager's job to say where I play. If he thinks I can do the job, it makes no difference to me as a player. Just so I'm out there, he concluded.

Joyce Konkle Rolls 591 Marilyn Smudde Hits Leading 548 Pin Set

Marilyn Smudde had a 548 series with a 200 game and Marlene Smudde hit a 204 singleton to share honors in the Twilight League at the Super Bowl Tuesday.

Action in the Lucky Strike League Monday night at Jerry's Lanes, Kimberly, saw Joyce Konkle crack a 245 game and 591 series.

Other top Kimberly scores included Carol Vande Leo 532, LaVerne Baerenwald 287, Laurie Kobs 281-525, Jeanne Stuyvenberg 216 and Ruth Landau 282.

Carol Schuh slammed a 210 game and 546 series in the 'n Miss League at the 41 Bowl Tuesday. Just one pin behind in series was Marsha Folkman with 545 and a 202 game, and Carol Hubbs had a 203 line and 541 series.

Leading the Ten Pin Toilers League at Hahn's Lanes was Becky LeMay with a 203 game and 534 series.

Florence Scheuer powered a 537 count in the Women's National League at 41 Bowl.

Karen Bjerkvold rolled a 202 singleton to pace the Refresh-allowing the West to grab a quick 8-1 lead in the first period and a 66-60 lead in the third.

Despite the 7-foot-2 Alcindor, San Diego's 6-9½ Elvin Hayes and 7-1 Wilt Chamberlain from Los Angeles, the West was out-rebounded 58-53. Alcindor was the game's leader with 14.

Costello said the most difficult part of coaching all stars is playing everyone on the team.

Holtzman, who coached the East's 142-135 victory last year, concurred:

"I made sure I had everyone in by the third quarter. After that, I played it as a game situation."

Bristol said Sanders and Baldwin were outstanding in the bull pen and should do even better this year. He also said Walton has a "chance to be a fine player." The manager said Danny had some trouble after being introduced to "the curve ball at the big league level" but that he's shown dedication in his efforts to overcome the weakness.

Del Crandall, former star Braves catcher, was the link between the old and new Milwaukee teams. Crandall, newly-named manager of the Brewers' triple A club at Evansville, said he hopes "some of the excitement of the '50s can be recaptured."

Merle Harmon and Tom Collins, voices of the Brewers, were co-masters of ceremonies of the Rotary luncheon program.

Report Stram Signs 10-Year Chiefs Pact

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Star says in its Wednesday morning edition that Hank Stram has been given a 10-year contract as coach of the Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League.

The story was written by Joe McGuire, the paper's sports editor, from Miami Beach, Fla.

The story says Stram and Chiefs owner Lamar Hunt have reached an agreement on the contract and the actual signing will take place soon.

Eau Claire Cagers Drop to No. 10 in College Division Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—The Eau Claire State University basketball team, tied for ninth last week in The Associated Press college division basketball poll, fell to tenth in this week's rankings announced today.

The Bluebirds, who have a 12-1 record, had 88 points in balloting by sports writers and sportscasters compared to 282 points for top rated Southwestern Louisiana, which also has a 12-1 mark.

club's concession committee for years and is in on all phases of the operation. In fact, it was through his earlier ties with White Sox farm director Glen Miller that the Foxes were able to obtain their present working agreement with the Chicago Club after the Baltimore Orioles left Appleton.

Joe was born on a farm south of Freedom; is married and father of five children. He attended St. Norbert College in De Pere.

He is a member of the Kaukauna school board and the fire and police commission.

Tickets for the Smith affair are now available at $5 each at the Mid-City Beer Depot or the Men's Department of the H. C. Prange Co.

In other matches Bonduel fell to Coleman, 29-21, and Wrightstown rolled over Winneconne, 22-9.

Chilton pins were turned in by Neil Kratzke, 105 pounds; Steve Rusch, 112 pounds; David Maas, 145 pounds, and Joe Wagner, 138 pounds.

Jim Weishoff flattened Chilton's John Mayer in 1:41 at 155 pounds and Dale Reh added a pin for the Terrors at 185.

Bonduel heavyweight Wes Busch recorded his 11th straight victory as he pinned his foe in quick fashion. Don Zernicke suffered his second loss of the season, while John Novak hiked his mark to 10-1.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's how to work it:

is

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Kaukauna School Board Pushes for Unified District

KAUKAUNA — The board of education Tuesday authorized Bayshore to take a swipe at City Attn. Donald Green to begin initiating steps for creation of a unified school district. The board of education Tuesday authorized Bayshore to take a swipe at City Attn. Donald Green to begin initiating steps for creation of a unified school district. The board of education Tuesday authorized Bayshore to take a swipe at City Attn. Donald Green to begin initiating steps for creation of a unified school district.

Ultimately, creation of a unified school district will be decided upon by the City Council, but initial action for creation of such a district is instituted by the board of education. Discussion was conducted about seven years ago on changing from a city to unified district. Notification of a change in type of school district must be given to the State Department of Public Instruction by June 30, and board of education.

Board members approved pay should be started early to permit council members and the public to become acquainted with differences in the two districts.

Circus Parade in Milwaukee to be Held on a Sunday

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee's Fourth of July Circus parade will be held this year on a Sunday afternoon for the first time.

The legal holiday will be Monday, July 5, but a spokesman for the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., sponsor of Old Milwaukee Days June 30-July 5, said the schedule would enable families to have a full day for civic celebrations on the Fifth. The lake front band concert and fireworks will be presented Saturday evening, July 3.

The arrival of the circus train from the Circus World Museum at Baraboo is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, June 30. The cargo of historic circus wagons will include a newly restored English telescoping tableau in addition to the three English circus wagons seen in the parade for the first time last July.

K-C Promotes Robert Murray

NEENAH — Robert P. Murray has been named marketing manager, feminine care products, for Kimberly-Clark Corporation's feminine products department. He had been manager of new business development.

In his new position, Murray will be responsible for the Kotex Collection, a new line of personal care products, as well as new business development within the feminine care area. Thomas E. O'Shea has been appointed product manager, reporting to Murray. O'Shea had been customer service representative in the firm's Memphis, Tenn. mill.

TV MOVIES

3:30 p.m. — "That Tennessee Beat" (1966) A no-good, guitar playing young man runs away from home after stealing money from and injuring a neighbor. Sharon DeBord, Earl Richards, Minnie Pearl.

7:30 p.m. — "Warm That Man" Gordon Harker, Raymond Lovell.

8 p.m. — "Arrowhead" (1953) War action in Texas as the Army faces valiant Indian foes. Charlton Heston, Jack Palance.

10 p.m. — "Armored Attack" (1943) Russia during WWII, with plenty of propaganda showing. Anne Baxter, Walter Huston, Dana Andrews.

10:30 p.m. — "Twenty Plus Two" (1961) Blackmail, murder and double identities become the case of the dead secretary, but a private eye figures out the involved truth. David Janssen, Jeanne Crain, Dina Merrill, Agnes Moorehead.

'To Rome With Love' Has New TV Time Slot

BY TV SCOUT
7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — Every one connected with To Rome With Love is pleased that the very pleasant series has a new time slot, one that is suitable for family viewing (and one which came about because of a lot of mail asking if the show couldn't be telecast earlier). There are two problems to night: Alison wants an apartment of her own and new neighbors, a Japanese family, are having a problem with the father, a bonsai expert used to controlling how both plants and children grow.

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — The Storefront Lawyers take on a 15-year-old client, a Mexican boy whose habit of circulating petitions in school — including one to oust the principal — has gotten him expelled.

6:30 - 8 Channel 5 — The Men from Shiloh has a fast-moving story in which James Drury visits the ranch of a man about to be appointed to the Senate. The politician (William Windom) plans to sell the ranch to Shiloh, over the objections of his hard-drinking, violent brother (John Ericson). Also involved in what turns out to be a murder mystery: Diana Muldaur as the Windom's ambitious wife, Jean Hale (she's the murder victim) and Jim Davis as a friend.

7:30-8 Channels 11-9 — Room 222 has a good script that examines the rights of students. Ta-Tanisha has won a scholarship to an art institute but the teacher who signed her application denies having ever done so.

8-9 Channel 5 — "Alan King Plays the Games People Play" is The Kraft Music Hall presentation with Alan being joined by Anne Meara, Mary Ann Mobley and James Coco.

10:30-11:30 Channel 2 — Medical Center is more psychiatric detective story than it is a medical case. Oh, sure, there's surgery performed on a famous woman executive who has been badly injured when thrown from her horse while riding with her sister. But when the woman is left paralyzed, and the diagnosis is hysterical paralysis, Dr. Gannon wants to learn what terrible thing has been blocked out of her mind.

9-10 Channel 5 — Four-in-One: Rod Serling's Night Gallery has three Rod Serling teleplays (one adapted from a story by Alger non Blackwood) with the first, notable in that it is a straight drama starring comics Phyllis Diller and John Astin. She's a dead woman, murdered by her husband, who could no longer stand the sound of her voice. But she continues to talk and teach him what Hell is really like. Other episodes have John Colicos as a sort of Flying Dutchman, only he's always in a life raft from a sunken ship, and John Williams as a stiff-upper-lip British type who is about to be murdered by a doll.

Bob Hope Brings Grass Smoking Out in Open

Joke on Pot in Christmas Show for Vietnam Servicemen; On TV Thursday
BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope to baseball star Johnny Bench. "It's a great sport, it's a great game," said Hope. "I tried it and it scared me. It made me sexier months on grass and not get — and I thought I was already sexy enough."

Vietnam audiences of American servicemen roared with laughter, and the evidence can be seen on Hope's television special Thursday night.

Bob Hope doing marijuana jokes for the troops? "Yes, I know a lot of people are shocked," said the comedian during a break in editing the NBC show down to 90 minutes.

On His Own
"I didn't talk to the military brass about doing it. I just went ahead. I think it's better to get this thing out in the open. Then it can be treated as the problem it is."

A Hope aide remarked that one general was queried for his reaction. "This man deals in the news," said the general, "and he's not smoking in Vietnam is news."

"Sure, they smoke pot in Vietnam," Hope commented. "But this was never a problem until this year. That's because the guys have nothing to do. Before, when soldiers got bored they said, 'Let's have a drink.' Now they sit around the fire and light up."

"But look—when I was a young man, we'd go knock on a door on 57th Street in New York and go into a speakeasy to get a drink. Liquor was illegal then, and that was our kick."

Against Practice
Does that mean Hope favors legalizing pot as well as liquor? "Oh, no!" he replied quickly. "I've talked to too many doctors about it. I know it's not good for you."

Your Money's Worth Cut Clothing Costs By Watching the Sales

BY SYLVIA PORTER

You can achieve sensational savings of as much as 30 to 50 per cent just by buying your basic style clothing off-season. Right now, during the January sales, is the time to buy furs, expensive dresses and coats.

March is the month to buy ski clothes and winter coats. Late summer is the time for bathing suits and lightweight slacks.

Keep careful track of your clothing needs so you can take fullest advantage of the off-aging season sales and traditional clearances through the year, and I guarantee this guide alone will put you spectacularly ahead in your clothing budget.

Save another 10 to 30 per cent on your clothing budget just by buying standard items in numerical quantity. If you buy six pairs of socks of the same type and color, for instance, each sock wears out you can match it with what's left and minimize the waste.

Where The Bargains Are

Find and patronize the most economical clothing stores for staple items: underwear, blue jeans, scarves, sports shirts, athletic socks, sneakers, etc. Chain stores and mail-order houses are excellent; a "factory discount store" is an outlet for slightly irregular items at drastic markdowns: local thrift and consignment shops can be sources for extraordinary bargains in high fashion clothes.

By themselves, these three rules will save you 5 to 30 per cent on your clothing bills, and now read on for much more.

Use with utmost caution department and clothing store revolving credit plans. Not only may you easily overspend, still, stretch out your repayments and have to pay stiff interest charges; you also may be so tied up with payments that you miss major sales at other stores.

Plan your wardrobe with more than one function in mind. To illustrate, a top-notch bargain is a raincoat with a detachable lining that can be appropriate both for mildest and for cold weather.

Learn your labels; save them on new clothes, index and file them so you know how to wash and dry clean the garments. If you need advice on a specific fabric, the National Institute of Drycleaning in Silver Spring, Md., has 78 "Facts About Fabrics" pamphlets; ask a member cleaner or write to the institute for data. Also learn how to get maximum use from "permanent press" and how not to abuse stretch fabrics.

Stress basic style in any clothing purchase; avoid pack-aging yourself in the latest fads; wait until a trend has caught on. Simplicity in style and color means economy as well as good taste.

Buy standard sizes whenever possible — small, medium or large size. Prices go up when you buy in neck and sleeve sizes.

Slash your clothing costs by learning how to take proper care of your clothes: using suitably shaped hangers; hanging clothes only when dry and in a dry, airy, cool place; brushing clothes frequently; mending small rips at once; giving wrinkles a chance to fall out. And use self-service dry cleaners for all but your best and finest garments. Never store clothing that is dirty.

Never buy a new wardrobe all at once. Buy it piece by piece, and choose simple traditional styles and colors which will cost as much as one-third less and last longer; polish shoes regularly to protect them, and don't wear them out in the rain; change your shoes at least once a day; and buy during the seasonal sales of January and July for maximum savings.

Between a basic style quality dress costing $100 or a high-fashion dress costing $50, buy the quality dress. It'll be cheaper in the long run every time.

If you must buy a way-out garment, buy the least expensive you can find — or better, still, sew it yourself. You can save 50 cents out of every $1 by this interest sewing; you can get far superior workmanship if you are at

Traffic Ticket Would Have Been Cheaper

An individual who tried to get out of a traffic ticket by using a false name and fake driver's license was sentenced to 18 months in the Outagamie County jail on those and other charges Tuesday morning.

Peter Socha, 24, of 208 N. Sidney St., Kimberly, pleaded guilty to the four counts Monday, but was held overnight for a presentence investigation.

A county patrolman, who brought charges, informed County Judge Gustave J. Keller Monday that he grew suspicious Saturday afternoon when a motorist, later identified as Socha, tried to cover his face with his hand. He would've stopped him at Franklin and Richmond streets, he said, but traffic was too heavy.

The county policeman, bound for the office, informed city police to be on the lookout for the car Socha was driving. Appleton patrolman stopped Socha minutes later in the 300 block of N. Richmond Street, and he identified himself as a nonexistent twin brother Paul. He produced a driver's license bearing that name, and fraudulent registration.

The county officer, immediately called to the scene by city police, recognized "Paul" immediately as Peter.

Socha was charged with obstructing an officer, driving after revocation this seventh time, possessing a fraudulent driver's license and false registration.

all competent; and this is an increasingly "in" activity.

Obeys the rules for saving on shoes: have each pair fitted; shop in the middle of the day; choose simple traditional styles and colors which will cost as much as one-third less and last longer; polish shoes regularly to protect them, and don't wear them out in the rain; change your shoes at least once a day; and buy during the seasonal sales of January and July for maximum savings.

You don't consume a coat as you do a cookie. Clothing is a big, expensive, long-term investment, and when you save in this area, you really save.

TOMORROW — Curbing Medical Costs

In the Mailbag Even the Antarctic Isn't Pollution-Free

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you want to avoid becoming a delinquent, learn to like yourself. Psychologists have found that a lack of self-esteem, a feeling of being bad and worthless, often lead an individual to rebel against the rules of society and become delinquent.

There is no reason for blind worship of the efficiency of machines. It has been figured that it would take 100 clerks working for 100 years to make a mistake as monumental as a single computer can make in a thousandth of a second.

Can you tell the difference between a toad and a frog? Generally, frogs have smooth skins and toads warty skins.

Antarctic Pollution

If one were asked to name a remote place on earth he would most expect to be free of all air pollution, he would probably pick Antarctica. But it isn't. Snow cores drilled there several years ago, says the National Geographic Society, show traces of ashes spilt by winds from a volcano that erupted some 15,000 years ago.

Half of America's industrial employees work under conditions so noisy they risk damaged hearing, the Stanford Research Institute estimates. But all attempts to make a hush-hush world don't succeed. Example: an attempt to market a quieter vacuum cleaner failed because housewives felt that lack of noise indicated lack of power.

Quotable notables: "America is a wonderful country and its greatest safety lies in its own insularity." —Frank Conroy.

Concentration

Why you may feel crowded: Seventy per cent of Americans live on one per cent of the land.

Keep living: A child born in the United States today can look forward to living 70½ years—a record level. In 1900 an infant had an average life expectancy of 48 years. Many people may ask whether life is worth living, but most of them hang on to it as long as possible—if only in the hope that it will get better.

Four-footed garbage man: Harar, the fourth largest city in Ethiopia, has no sanitation department. Its garbage is eaten nightly by skulking spotted hyenas, which weigh up to 130 pounds and can run 40 miles an hour. Once a year the hyenas are given a present of a dead cow, and if they take the bribe the citizens feel safe from attack by them until the next year.

Alibi for Success

Signs of the time: On the desk of Jules Podell, Copacabana owner: "The reason there are so many alibis for failure is because success doesn't need any."

Maternal Pachyderm: Female elephants are good mothers and don't believe in spoiling the child by sparing the rod. When her baby—which weighs 200 pounds at birth—gets too mischievous, the mother elephant uproots a bush or plucks a tree branch and whacks it across the back sternly—just as human mothers used to do.

Worth remembering: "The best way to get a woman's undivided attention is to tell her something that is none of her business."

All Taxes

Those good old days: In 1902 all U.S. government taxes—federal, state and local—came to only $17 per person.

Mr. Little and Mr. Big: Who were the lightest and heaviest U.S. presidents? The lightest at 100 pounds was James Madison, who was only 5 feet 4. The heaviest was 6-foot William Howard Taft who, at 340 pounds, weighed nearly 3½ times as much as Madison.

It was Oscar Wilde who observed: "One can always be kind to people about whom one cares nothing."

Nixon Warns Against Steel Price Increases

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon, trying to stave off a new round of steel price increases, is threatening lengths Tuesday to deny a published report that a 1972 campaign organization is being set up on Nixon's behalf.

Referring to a Washington dispatch in Tuesday's editions of the New York Times, Ziegler said, "No 1972 campaign organization is being set up and any suggestion along that line is erroneous."

Leave Staff
The Times had reported that Murray N. Chotiner, longtime political adviser to Nixon, soon would leave the White House staff to head a privately financed campaign organization "under the tutelage" of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

In Washington, after closely coordinating his response with the Western White House, Mitchell said the attorney generalship is a full-time job and that he intends to fill it indefinitely.

"I wouldn't have any time for 'political tutoring' of my friend Murray Chotiner or anyone else, even if I had tutoring credentials," Mitchell said.

Chotiner said in Washington, "If and when I leave the White House, it won't have anything to do with 1972." He said he has considered leaving his post as special counsel to the President "for personal reasons."

The President will end a nine-day California stay Thursday, returning to Washington after a speaking engagement on the campus of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

Sunset today at 4:38 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow at 7:26 a.m. Moonrise tonight at 6:57 p.m. Last Quarter on Jan. 19.

Force Rollback
Should Bethlehem's competitors stand pat or adopt smaller price advances, they presumably would force at least a partial rollback of the announced increases.

A Bethlehem spokesman said his company had no comment on the Nixon threat to consider raising voluntary quotas on the amount of steel exported to the United States by major foreign producers.

Soon after Bethlehem Steel's announcement, a small company, Lukens Steel Co. of Coatesville, Pa., announced it was boosting prices of carbon steel plates $17 a ton, effective March 1.

Various Steels
Bethlehem's increase of $16 to $17 a ton are on piling, structural shapes and carbon plates used in construction and shipbuilding.

Ziegler, in discussing steel prices, said: "The increase by Bethlehem Steel relate to products of particular importance to construction. The President feels that the unusually large increases in these important prices would have unfortunate cost-raising effects in the construction industry where costs have already been virtually out of control."

He said Nixon had ordered his Cabinet committee on economic policy to review the "enormous increases" and their probable impact and to report promptly on possible countermeasures the government might take.

Government Review
Ziegler volunteered that Nixon felt Bethlehem's competitors "should know that the government is reviewing what action we may take in relation to the import of foreign steel to this country."

Damage 'Unavoidable' Oil Pipeline for Alaska Endorsed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department reported today that a proposed 800-mile oil pipeline across Alaska would create unavoidable environmental damage but that it should be built because the nation needs the oil.

The environmental impact statement, required by law, said construction and operation in strict accordance with applicable laws and regulations and with the department's special stipulations "would reduce foreseeable environmental costs to acceptable levels."

The staff report, described by the department as a draft subject to change after public hearings next month, could not promise complete environmental safety for the pipeline, but only that it "on balance would create the fewest number of environmental problems of all alternate means considered."

North Slope
Development of the petroleum reserves on the north slope of Alaska is essential to the strength, growth and security of the United States," the report said.

Seven oil companies have banded together in proposing construction of the $1 billion pipeline to carry oil through a frozen area, from vast petroleum fields discovered two years ago in the Alaskan Arctic to an ice-free port at Valdez, on the state's southern coast. From there, the oil, to flow at some two million barrels a day, would be shipped by tanker to the U.S. West Coast.

The report admitted the construction and operation—and, in fact, the very presence—of the pipeline would create unavoidable environmental damage but that it should be built because the nation needs the oil.

There will be no public report on the investigation, foreman Ernest Renzel said Tuesday in announcing the end to the inquiry.

"We are satisfied that we have acquired by investigation those facts that represent what happened at the San Jose Civic Auditorium the night of President Nixon's visit," Renzel said in a statement.

"We are further satisfied that those identifiable persons who committed crimes have been charged for their actions."

Four men arrested by police on misdemeanor charges before the grand jury investigation are awaiting trial. The charges range from assaulting a police officer to urging to riot and disturbing the peace.

A flurry of rock throwing erupted as Nixon left a Republican rally where he backed the re-election bids of Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. George Murphy.

Windows were shattered in buses carrying newsmen and White House spokesman later showed nicks in the President's limousine which they said were caused by thrown rocks.

Chichester Off On New Jaunt

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Sir Francis Chichester is off from Portuguese Guinea in his bid to sail 4,000 miles to San Juan, Nicaragua, in his yacht Gipsy Moth V in 20 days.

"Everything is going smoothly now and I think I have a good chance of making San Juan on time," Chichester, who sailed around the world alone, told newsmen before leaving port Tuesday.

Federal Jury Reviews Alleged Scheme

Philip Berrigan Indicted in Kidnap Plot

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury has named the explosives in heat tunnels connected Philip Berrigan, the imprisoned antiwar priest, as mastermind of a bizarre plot to blow up heating ducts in government buildings and whisk away presidential adviser Henry Kissinger.

The indictment, returned Tuesday in Harrisburg, Pa., against Berrigan and five others, alleged that Kissinger, President Nixon's adviser on national security affairs, was to be kidnaped one day after the date of the explosions was set by the grand jury as Washington's birthday.

The plot outlined in the indictment closely resembles a scenario sketched for a Senate subcommittee by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover last Nov. 27.

Berrigan and his brother Daniel, Hoover said, were part of a group called the "East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives" that planned to blow up underground wires and ducts and kidnap "a highly placed government official."

"If successful, the plotters would demand an end to U.S. bombing operations in Southeast Asia and the release of all political prisoners as ransom," Hoover testified.

The indictment listed Daniel Berrigan, also a Catholic priest, as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant.

Friends and relatives of the six- and three-year sentences, respectively, for the indictment expressed shock and disbelief at the grand jury action.

"Sounds Fantastic"
"This whole thing sounds fantastic," said Mrs. William Davidson, wife of an alleged co-conspirator and a friend of Daniel Berrigan.

Both Philip Berrigan, 47, and Daniel, 49, are in the Federal Correctional Institute at Danbury, Conn., where they are serving April 21 and placed in the U.S. Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. Daniel eluded capture until August 11.

After Hoover's November testimony, the brothers, by then transferred to the Danbury prison, challenged the FBI chief to withdraw his accusations or back them up with indictments, saying, "We have already been tried and condemned by Mr. Hoover's remarks."

Later a group of Roman Catholic clerics, including a Baltimore priest, turned to Page 2, Col. 3

U.S. efforts to stop the illegal use of secret foreign bank accounts received a further boost earlier this month when Switzerland announced it would turn over to U.S. tax authorities information about secret Swiss bank accounts held by American citizens when there is suspicion of serious tax crimes.

Switzerland's highest court ruled that Swiss bank secrecy laws dating back to 1934 do not protect bank customers from investigation when criminal tax frauds are suspected.

However, secret Swiss accounts still will be protected from scrutiny in matters of simple tax evasion because tax evasion—unlike criminal tax fraud—is not considered a crime in that country.

And U.S. authorities still have no access to secret accounts in the dozen other nations which have bank secrecy laws.

The immediate effect of the new law on the nation's taxpayers is the first question at the top of page two of the standard income tax form:

"Did you, at any time during the taxable year, have any in-

Tax Evasion Hole Being Plugged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The interest in or signature or other federal government is moving authority over a bank, securities or other financial account in tax evasion this year by requiring, for the first time, that U.S. taxpayers disclose on their income tax returns any financial interests they own or control in foreign countries.

Officials hope that such disclosures will help close off the pipelines which illegally carry hundreds of millions of dollars each year out of the country and into secret foreign bank accounts, safely away from the jurisdiction of U.S. criminal and tax authorities.

This year's 1970 tax forms, currently cropping up in mail boxes from coast to coast, contain a new section required under a law signed last October by President Nixon.

Extensive Reporting
The law calls for extensive reporting and record keeping on foreign financial transactions. Popularly known as the Swiss Bank Bill, it was approved after two years of bitter congressional debate and extensive lobbying efforts against the bill by some of the nation's major banks whose officers felt the records-keeping requirements were too stringent.

The immediate effect of the new law on the nation's taxpayers is the first question at the top of page two of the standard income tax form:

"Did you, at any time during the taxable year, have any in-

Elimination of Tire Studs to be Asked

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The state division of highways will advise the state legislature that the use of the 1965 state law on studded auto tires under authority of state law is causing unnecessarily costly damage to road surfaces in Wisconsin.

The study report will tell the state that the studs cause and repair liability that far exceeds the safety and convenience factors for which such that the safety considerations in metallic threads were designed their use are not as significant.

The highway administration as previously claimed and believed.

One study in another state already cited to the senate committee asserts that the tire studs permit a stopping distance on asphalt surface little shorter by tire studs that has been than can be provided with non-studded tires, and that the stopping distance on concrete surfaces is not significantly improved.

The use of tire studs during the winter was authorized in Wisconsin by the legislature in 1965.

Old Jokes Never Die

'And the One About. ...'

NEW YORK (AP) — Old joke: I loved my wife, so I put her on a pedestal. Now she's always jumping down my throat.

Like that?
Here's another: My son doesn't think I like him too much. When he left for school this morning, I wrapped his lunch in a road map.

These hoary specimens of wit and many, many more were retold Tuesday night at the first Joke Revival Meeting of a group called the National Association for the Advancement of the Art of Joke Telling and the Preservation and Encouragement of the Amateur Story Teller. The meeting was at the College of Comedy.

NAAAJTPEAST's object, according to Executive Director George Q. Lewis, is "to help bring back some of the good old jokes."

Like, say, the one about Harry: Harry knows his capacity for drinking. Only trouble is, he gets drunk before he reaches it.

Preservation of such mots is being undertaken as a "public service," says Lewis, who is author of "The Best Jokes of All Time and How to Tell Them."

Wisconsin Residents Take to Margarine

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The enthusiasm with which the consumers of Wisconsin responded to the action of the Legislature two years ago in repealing the long standing legal barrier to the sale of colored margarine is dramatically shown in the records of the state department of taxation.

When the legislature changed the law to permit the sale of the colored spread and levied a tax of five and one quarter cents a pound on the product as a concession to the sensitive milk producers selling to the butter market, the consumer interest of the state responded with a buying spree that few legislators anticipated.

The tax returns during the last year indicate that the per capita consumption of margarine in this principal butter producing state of the nation is approaching that of the country as a whole.

During the last fiscal year, Wisconsin margarine consumers paid into the state treasury more than $2.4 million at the rate of .five and one quarter cents, indicating a per capita consumption rate approaching 10 pounds per year. The most recent estimates show that the national per capita consumption is now about 11 pounds. Butter trails nationally at about 5.1 pounds, according to government estimates for November.

The state is now collecting 10 times more in taxes yearly on margarine than under the pre-butter law which prohibited the distribution of the colored product altogether, and penalized the uncolored "butter substitute" by requiring a tax payment of 15 cents a pound.

The issue of the future of margarine policy will be before the new legislature.

The five and one quarter cent a pound tax was intended by the legislature of 1969 to be a temporary expedient. The law provides for its expiration a year from next July, which means that the current legislature will be required to decide whether it should be extended, as the butter marketing interests are regarded as certain to propose.

But the consumer interest in state political affairs has become more aggressive and influential, as shown in last year's result that the outcome of the new chapter in the perennial dispute about the merits of margarine in a high butter producing state is probably uncertain.

Warehouse Ablaze at Greenville

Sessions Will be On Wednesdays Beginning Jan. 30

NEW LONDON — Information on drugs, their use and abuse, will be presented in a series of three special meetings, held at the First Congregational United Church of Christ.

The sessions will be conducted Wednesdays, Jan. 30, and Feb. 3 and 17. They will be open to anyone interested in the drug problem.

On Jan. 20, the film "The People Next Door" will be shown. It is a CBS Playhouse drama about two middle class couples who discover that their children are involved with drugs. The drama is to open a discussion of middle class ethical and moral values.

On Feb. 3, the film "Marijuana," concerning the drug and the "turned-on" generation will be shown. Judges, lawyers, doctors, congressmen, and policemen tell it like it is. Addicts explain the danger of graduating from marijuana to hard drugs; and high school students who fear severe legal penalties show how the problem is driven underground.

On Feb. 17, the audience will view the film "LSD-25". The film visualizes the horror and beauty of distortions created by LSD. It discusses the contents of LSD and the possible contamination of the drug.

Each meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m., and run until about 8 p.m.

Barkeeper Forfeits $101 For Youth Loitering

WAUPACA — Frank R. Darvin, forfeited $101, plus $12.70, in County Court Branch 2, Monday. He was charged with permitting a minor to loiter in his tavern at 111½ E. Fulton St., Waupaca.

City police, in answer to several telephone calls, entered the tavern at 1:15 a.m., Dec. 24, and found a 17-year-old loitering.

Probe Requested In $1 Fine Case

An investigation has been urged into an Outagamie County Court as a result of $1 fines that were levied by the court Monday.

Supv. Paul Huseby, Appleton, chairman of the county board's courts and justice committee, sought authority Tuesday for his committee to investigate charges in a WHBY editorial that actions of County Judge Urban Van Susteren constituted a "gross miscarriage of justice."

However, questions raised by Huseby were referred back to his committee to come back in February with the answers.

The radio station's editorial was prompted by Van Susteren's levying of $1 fines against two defendants convicted of obstructing an officer, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

The pair had been convicted by a 12-man jury. Van Susteren then overturned the jury verdicts but Circuit Judge Andrew Parnell ordered the guilty verdicts reinstated and ordered Van Susteren to sentence the men.

The $1 fines were levied Monday.

Huseby said the editorial was a "strong statement." At the same time, he said he wanted "to do the right thing" which is why he brought the matter to the board floor rather than simply proceeding with it in committee.

However, the questions Huseby wanted clarified before proceeding with any investigation were referred back to his own committee for answering.

"How far can a county board go in investigating a court?" he asked. "Can they? Do you want to get involved in such an investigation?"

County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, said, "I hope you are aware of the seriousness of such an undertaking. Remember, judges are elected by the people as well as we are."

DeLaHunt also noted that an investigation costs money.

However, Huseby answered that "we have the authority to give them (the judges) money and benefits. I want to do the right thing. If you (the county board) want us to forget this, this is also fine with us."

Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, suggested that there was not that great of rush said the committee should get the answers to those questions and then, if it still wants to proceed, return in February.

Legion Post to Sponsor Student Oratory Contest

FREMONT — An oratorical contest is being sponsored by the Wolf River American Legion Post here for high school students of the Weyauwega-Fremont area.

Students may contact Mrs. David Werth, speech instructor at the high school, and prepare their oration. It will center on the theme of the U.S. Constitution, and it will emphasize the duties of a citizen to the national government. The speeches of eight to ten minutes will be judged at 1:30 p.m. Jan. 30 at the school in Weyauwega.

Winners of the local contest will compete with other Waupaca County entrants at a date announced later by Milton Hagedorn, commander of the Fremont post. District competition will be judged Feb. 13 at Stevens Point.

Tavern 'Shor' By Tire Stud

STOCKBRIDGE — Calumet County Sheriff's Department investigated what was reported as a shot through the window at the Gobblers Knob tavern about 10 p.m. Tuesday. Upon investigation of the object which caused the hole in the large window, police found it to be a tire stud, which apparently worked itself loose when a car spun its tires turning the corner.

Petition Set for Electricity Rate

Commission to Ask Authorization From Clintonville Council

CLINTONVILLE — A special meeting of the City Council has been called for 7:30 p.m. today to consider and take action on seven items, including a request from the Water and Light commission for permission to petition for a rate increase for electricity.

The council also will consider: —Payment of some year end bills over $75 to close out the books.

—A request from the Board of Public Works for permission to advertise for gasoline for 1971.

—A recommendation from the Board of Public Works on bids for grader.

—The recommendation of the personnel committee regarding salary increases for city employees.

—Regulations on public alleys within the city; and —Amendments to the snowmobile ordinance.

At Waupaca

Traffic Proposal Viewed

WAUPACA — City officials, local businessmen and interested citizens had their first look Tuesday at a study made by the department of traffic engineering, American Automobile Association, in an informal meeting called by Mayor Edward Kramer.

The city has made a number of studies and talked with the State Highway Department officials during the past year.

Free Day Scheduled For Shiocton Schools

SHIOCTON — There will be no classes in Shiocton schools Friday, the day between semesters. The free day will allow instructors time to complete grades.

Antipollution Authority for Valley Urged

The Fox Valley Council of Governments citizens advisory committee Monday endorsed establishing a Regional Pollution Abatement Authority to handle waste water treatment and solid waste disposal in the area.

The committee will recommend to COG delegates today that they draft and sponsor new state legislation immediately to allow creation of such an authority.

The proposal was submitted by the legal subcommittee of the citizens committee. The subcommittee last month reported that existing state legislation is inadequate to create authority for his region.

Key Element

The authority is a key element of regional solid waste disposal and sewerage treatment plans for this area. COG adopted a regional sewerage plant proposal for the Fox Cities area, and has tussled with a regional solid waste disposal program, but both became bogged down as attempts to implement either met opposition.

The citizens committee was asked to study the questions and, besides the legal recommendation, its technical subcommittee Monday tentatively endorsed the four-plant sewerage system.

It proposed using three plants and possibly holding up development of the fourth until it is needed.

"The four-plant plan fully utilizes existing facilities, accomplishes orderly construction of required treatment plants in the future, is sufficiently flexible to permit incorporation of technological developments as they occur and appears to be the most economical overall plan for the region," the subcommittee report said.

The subcommittee will study the proposal more before submitting its final report, it was reported.

Referendum Needed

Under the legal subcommittee's recommendation, the abatement authority — which need not be called by that name — would be established by petition and referendum. At least 4 per cent of the region's qualified voters must petition for the referendum which then must be passed by a majority.

F. Joseph Sensenbrenner, Neenah attorney and legal subcommittee chairman, said the idea was to create an organization with fund-raising ability and which could provide direction from the top and coordinate service to the region.

"The authority, we think, is the best way to avoid duplication of the operation and political problems resulting from individual approaches," he said.

He also noted that it's time residents climb out of their apathy and become aware of the regional program concept.

Financial Powers

The authority, according to the recommendation, would have financial powers and establish a user fee basis for financing the operation and debt retirement expenditures. It also should have financial powers, as required, the report said.

Withdrawal from the authority should be by petition and referendum, subject to outstanding obligations of the authority

Conradt Rips Lorge On Bid for New Judge

A letter from State Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, seeking legislative support for creation of a fourth branch of county court in Outagamie County drew fire from State Rep. Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, on the Outagamie County Board floor Tuesday.

The letter, addressed to the county board, was referred to the courts and justice committee but Conradt vowed he would fight the proposal to create more courts.

The bill proposes to eliminate two existing county courts, including one in Waupaca County, and create nine new courts, including the additional one in Outagamie County.

Lorge has said he will oppose eliminating the Waupaca County Court and, while he earlier said he hadn't taken a position on the new courts, his letter to the board indicated that he was backing the new Outagamie County Court.

Conradt said he had refused to co-author the bill. "We don't need more judges in this county court in Outagamie County," Conradt said. "If the County judges would just settle down there wouldn't be any problem," he said.

Conradt claimed, "I know what's behind this and I think you do too."

Although he did not specifically say so, Conradt's remarks left the impression that he felt that Lorge wanted the new judgeship for himself.

The Shiocton representative vowed, "I'll be there to speak on it (the bill)."

Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, said, "I hope he doesn't pass, the new Outagamie County judge would take office July 1, he appears for the county I hope the board decides what course it wants to take."

Conradt agreed that without specific direction from the county board he would speak only for himself.

Supervisors Pass Private Plane Rates

Landing Fees Approved for County Airport

The Outagamie County request because of what he said, Airport has become the first in Wisconsin to charge private proposed landing fees.

In a 34-12 vote Tuesday morning, the county board approved a schedule of landing fees for multi-engine transient aircraft and a yearly registration fee for all aircraft based at the airport.

The airport committee itself was split on the resolution, with two members, chairman John Dietz, Appleton, and Paul Kostka, Little Chute, opposing. Richard Jahnke, Appleton; Edward Spierings, Little Chute, and Robert Weyenberg, Kimberly, backed the fees.

The resolution originally had been presented at the December meeting of the board but had been laid over 30 days at Dietz's

At that time, Jahnke said, "Everyone said they would be glad to pay the tower and registration fees."

Cost of Tower

He denied the fees would drive away business. He said a count conducted by tower personnel over the last 35 days showed only an average of three aircraft per day that would have to pay the fee. This, Jahnke said, would amount to about $7,000 per year revenue if there was 100 per cent collection.

"There is $60,000 of the taxpayers money in that tower," Jahnke said, "and we promised to recover some of that."

Dietz agreed there was a promise to increase airport revenues but contended the only thing that landing fees were effective for was to drive away business.

He said he agreed only three planes per day would be affected "but they are the ones who bring in business."

Under the landing fee schedule, all single-engine aircraft, except air carriers, would pay $5. From 6,000 to 12,500 pounds, $7.50; 12,500 to 30,000 pounds, $10; 30,000 to 50,000 pounds, $15; 50,000 to 75,000 pounds, $25, and 110,000 pounds and up, $35.

Multi-engine transient aircraft up to 6,000 pounds would pay $5. From 6,000 to 12,500 pounds, $7.50; 12,500 to 30,000 pounds, $10; 30,000 to 50,000 pounds, $15; 50,000 to 75,000 pounds, $25, and 110,000 pounds and up, $35.

An airplane would be charged only one landing fee per day so that an airplane which dropped someone off in the morning and returned in the afternoon would not be charged twice.

The fee would be collected by a mailed billing to the owner of the aircraft.

Aircraft based at the airport, except air carriers, would pay an annual registration fee. This would be $20 for single engine airplanes; $35 for light twins to 6,000 pounds; $75 for planes 6,000 to 12,500 pounds; $150 for planes 12,500 to 30,000 pounds and $200 for planes over 30,000 pounds.

Both Winnebago and Brown county airports charge a landing fee for commercial or charter aircraft but not private owned airplanes.

Main Street and institute a 90-day trial period to evaluate the system.

19 Died on Waupaca County Roads

WAUPACA — Too much speed and driver failures were the primary causes of Waupaca County's 19 traffic deaths during 1970, Capt. John Penney, head of the county traffic police, said today in reviewing the past year's record.

"In four of the fatal accidents, alcohol was involved. This percentage is under the state and national average considerably," Penney stated. Driver failure, including pulling out into traffic and not stopping at signs, were the principle negligent acts.

Nine of the deaths occurred on U.S. 10. Mrs. Arlene M. Sztuczko, 23, route 1, Weyauwega, driver of the car, was killed in a head on collision May 7 on U.S. 10. Town of Caledonia. Mrs. Ellen C. Lefler, 55, Two Rivers, passenger in a car which met another head on east of Fremont on U. S. 10 was killed May 9.

3 at Intersection

During July there were three fatalities at the intersection of U. S. 10 and County Trunk D, east of Readfield. On July 2, LaVerne L. Faulks, 45, Schofield, Wis., driver of one of the cars, was killed in a two car crash.

James Croker, 6, Eagle River, passenger in one car, and Michael B. Hottenstine, 20, 918 E. Harding Drive, Appleton, passenger in the other car, were killed in a two car crash July 10 at the intersection.

Robert L. Vissers, 24, his wife Teresa, 21, and their 18 month old son Arron, 211 North Story St., Appleton, were killed on July 24 at the foot of the Weyauwega hill, U. S. 10, when their car struck a truck and semi-trailer.

David L. Christie, 18, route 2, Waupaca, was killed on U. S. 10, east of Waupaca in the Town of Lind on Oct. 25.

Elmer I. Mynard, 83, route 2, Waupaca, was fatally injured on March 5, on County Trunk K, Town of Dayton. His wife on U.S. 10. Mrs. Gladys, 84, died four days later from injuries received in the collision.

Steven W. Tolzman, 16, 322 Lima St., New London, passenger in a one car accident on State 54, Town of Mukwa, was killed April 10.

T. G. Ruckdashel, 86, route 2, New London, was killed on May 27, when his car was struck from behind in New London.

Norman H. Christensen, 49, route 1, Bear Creek, was fatally injured in a head on crash May 28 on Blueberry Road in the Town of Bear Creek.

Miss Elizabeth Abhold, 17, route 2, Fremont, was killed on June 6, when the car in which she was riding struck a tree or object on County Trunk U, Town of Weyauwega.

Mrs. Nancy A. Hafemeister, 84 Bridge St., Manawa, met her death Aug. 3, when the car in which she was riding struck a bridge guard rail on State 22 and 54, east of Waupaca.

During the year, 665 traffic accidents were filed with the Waupaca County patrol, 73 less damage need not be reported. During 1969 there were 16 accidents investigated 626 of the fatalities, two of them pedestrians, the sheriff's department, 2, the Wisconsin State Patrol, 39 and city traffic collected by the Waupaca County Court Branch 2, as a result of the arrests, totalled $42,336.

Stewart Huber Appointed to Clintonville School Board

CLINTONVILLE — Stewart Huber, 44, route 1, was appointed by the board of education Tuesday night to fill the unexpired term of Norman Crook, effective until the annual board election in July. Crook has moved out of the state.

Several persons had indicated their interest in serving on the board, and an appointment to fill the vacancy had been under consideration for the past several months.

The motion to appoint Huber was made by Dr. Peter Oberhauser and seconded by Joseph Peeters. The vote was 5 to 1 in favor of his appointment.

Huber, who was born at Fergus Falls, Minn., moved to Clintonville with his parents as a child. He graduated from Clintonville High School, attended college at Stevens Point and took additional extensions evening courses from Oshkosh State University and the University of Wisconsin.

He is engaged in farming. Huber is married and the father of three sons.

From 1960 to 1967, Huber was on the state board for the Soil and Water Conservation Committee and was district director from 1964 to 1969 for the U. S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). He also was 7th District chairman for the Democratic party.

Mrs. Lorna Aigner, junior high librarian, was released from her contract effective Jan. 21. She requested the release because her husband has been transferred to Richland Center. The board approved offering a Petersen, who is a December graduate of St. Norbert College National Park.

Project Proposed in New London

Has Adult Apathy Killed Youth Center?

BY SKIP HAMMERBERG
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — It appears that lack of concern — or just apathy — will cost the youth of the city a recreation center, at least for the time being.

The students conceived the idea of working for their own center in the fall, and have held a dance, car wash, and bake sale raising over $400 for the operating fund of the project.

Through time spent in their class and on their own, the students have contacted members of the City Council and many businessmen in the community, soliciting their help on the project.

While they did get verbal support, and in a few rare cases some actual financial help or time from the adults, the general feeling has been one of "war and see."

The adviser for the project has been Mike Miller, an instructor at the senior high school, who has devoted many hours of his free time, trying to find a building for the center, and trying to solicit support from adults for the project.

In early December he put out a call for any adults who would give some time to the project. At that time his plea was, "The kids can't do it alone."

Mayor S. W. Krostue told the students that he was sure the center was needed, but that he was concerned about the responsibility and of money for this center. Many ambitious kids went to the City Council about this project. At that time the students were optimistic that they would get support from the adults of the community. However, this help apparently is not coming.

Miller reported that only two people responded to his call for help. Both have indicated a willingness to work, and one stated that he could get five or six more people to put time into the operation of a center.

Not Enough Help

"I don't feel we can do it with seven or eight people," Miller said. "We can't do it alone anymore, besides these kids have parents, and they should be interested in what their kids are doing."

Mayor S. W. Krostue told the students that he was sure the center was needed, but that he was concerned about the responsibility and of money for this center. Many ambitious kids went to the City Council about this project. At that time the students were optimistic that they would get support from the adults of the community. However, this help apparently is not coming.

"Sensing that they could not do it all by themselves, the youth decided to ask the city for its support through my 'open letter'. The results are history."

When the matter was taken before the council, the city fathers heard the young people present their program and questioned them on their project.

Goes to Committee

The matter was then presented to the park, recreation and beautification committee, under the direction of Ald. Isabel Schoenrock. It has not appeared on the council floor again, except for the constant urging by Krostue to get some action on the idea.

Krostue also has urged action on obtaining a recreation director for the city, and the council has budgeted the funds to pay for a director and program in the last half of 1971.

Meanwhile, the students' recreation center is falling through. The lack of adult support is causing the efforts to fail.

"We know why it won't work, and now we need to know why it will work," Miller said at the time he was appealing for community support. Now, two months later he has found himself still searching for a way it will work.

To his list of reasons why it won't work, he can now add community apathy.

Not Optimistic

Miller has all but given up on the project, but plans to meet with the two people who indicated an interest in the project. However, he no longer is optimistic about the future of the program.

The response to the appeal for public help gave Miller an insight into the project. "This clearly indicates to me, beyond any shadow of a doubt that the

Ice Plowed Off

Fish Fever Starts on Lake

QUINNEY — East Winnebago shoreline resort and tavern keepers are reading themselves and the lake for those hardy ice fishermen.

Men and machines have been busy plowing roads out onto the ice for the sportsmen. About three miles have been cleared at Brothertown and Quinney and resort owners at Stockbridge and Fairy Springs are making plans to plow soon.

Calumet County Conservation Warden Richard Streng, however, warns fishermen to check with those who maintain the roads before venturing out. Cars and shanties are out on the ice in the Quinney-Brothertown area. Streng said out in some places ice is only six inches thick.

Fishing is far from Streng said, adding that he had seen good catches of pike from High Cliff State Park to Pipe River.

A spokesman at a Quinney tavern said his business and the fishing was good last weekend, but cautioned fishermen to stay only on the plowed road. Ice measurement was given as 12 inches.

Ray Ecker, veteran ice fisherman and operator of an ice shanty rental at Stockbridge, said he had tested the ice Tuesday and found a minimum of 12 inches and maximum of 17 inches.

Ecker said there was no water on the ice in his area. Some shanties were out, he said, and he expects to take more out today.

At Stockbridge harbor the Christmas tree guide line is set in place, as it is at Quinney and Brothertown, and Gib Schoen said he expected to have a road out for the weekend.

Resort owners at Fairy Springs also plan to make roads and are catering to heavy snowmobile traffic, as are the Calumet County and High Cliff State parks.

Fishing fever is coming on gradually, according to reports. While getting off to a slow start because of the heavy snow cover on the lake, tip-ups and jigging sticks are being brought out of storage and "Where can I buy minnows around here?" seems to be the question.

Man Is Held On 3 Counts

Preliminary Hearing Set at Waupaca; Bond Put at $2,500

WAUPACA — Michael Ruppert, alias Jesse Christensen, 29, route 2, Appleton, was arraigned Tuesday in County Court branch 2 on a count of burglary contributing to the delinquency of a child and two counts of carrying a dangerous weapon.

Judge Nathan Weiss set his preliminary hearing on the charge of burglary for 2:30 p.m. Jan. 19 and bond was set at $2,500.

Ruppert pleaded innocent to the count of contributing to the delinquency of a child and the count of carrying a dangerous weapon. Bond was set at $200 on each of these two counts.

He was remanded to the Waupaca County jail.

Charges were made by Sheriff Loran Prazier based on the signed statement of a 15-year-old Appleton girl, interrogated by Prazier Jan. 9. Ruppert allegedly burglarized the office of Camp Waupaca on or about Nov. 1.

The defendant also is charged with living with the 15-year-old as man and wife from Sept. 15 to Dec. 1 in a house trailer in the Town of Dayton and from Dec. 1 to Dec. 24 in a local hotel.

Oshkosh Charter Airline Failed to Pay Fees

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The Oshkosh-based charter airline that transports the University of Wisconsin football and basketball teams has failed to pay its current registration fees on eight aircraft, according to Fritz Wolf, administrator of the aeronautics division of the State Department of Transportation. Wolf cited Basler Flight Service, Inc., which is based at the Oshkosh County Airport as one of many airlines and individual plane owners that fail to pay registration fees during a review of proposed new registration fee schedule. Although Wolf did not name the company, it's identity was revealed through the survey of a brochure produced for the company.

According to current fee schedules, the company headed by Warren Basler owes about $1,200 in registration fees for five DC3's, two Martin 404's, and one Douglas DC6B. The fees, that are levied in lieu of personal property tax on aircraft, were due Nov. 1, 1970, Wolf said.

Basler Flight Service, Inc., was under investigation last fall after the Federal Aviation Agency after a charter plane carrying the University of Wisconsin football team to a game crashed, killing most of the passengers. At that time, it lost one scheduled flight with the UW team and reportedly lost a basketball team flight when it was recently under question.

Wolf said suspicion of the airline on the basis of safety and maintenance and licensing factors is not justified. The equipment and services is adequate and safe, he indicated.

Enforcing the registration fee law is difficult, Wolf told the council on aeronautics. The law that provides a penalty of $500 and 90 days in jail for failure to renew registration is supposed to be enforced by the district attorneys, he said. But it is difficult to get them to do so.

New London School Registration Is Open For Nursery Students

NEW LONDON — Parents wishing to enroll children for the second semester in the New London nursery school, are urged by the Rev. M. K. Staskal to do so soon.

Staskal reported that registration information for three and four-year-olds, in the nonsectarian program can be obtained at the First Congregational United Church of Christ.

The school is a "preschool educational experience." Classes meet Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings for the four-year-olds and Tuesday and Thursday for the three-year-olds. Sessions are from 9 to 11:15 a.m.

The school is directed by Mrs. John TerKurst, Weyauwega. She is a certified teacher and recently has taught kindergarten in Minnesota.

An activity schedule is geared for each age level with some time spent working with groups.

Records are kept for each child, and parents will receive progress reports.

Activities for the children include singalongs, individual and cooperative play, story hours, and group projects. Located in the school area are a sandbox, kitchen corner, store, and areas for various creative activities, including finger painting, clay molding, and other means for artistic expression. Students are covered by insurance, which includes coverage for any sponsored activity, including travel directly to and from his home.

Cost of the program is about $1.50 per day, a total of $1.50 for the three day program, and $100 for the two-day group.

There is a scholarship program, now available, to help defray costs. Parents can obtain scholarship information when they get registration information.

state inspectors to enforce the law. The agency itself cannot do it, he said, because it has no authority to take offenders to court.

There is criticism aimed at the division by pilots, he said, because those who do keep registrations current are aware other aircraft owners do not and are not penalized.

Raise Fees

The proposed new registration fee schedule would raise fees significantly for large aircraft. At present, owners of aircraft valued at $75,000 are charged the same as owners of $3 million aircraft, he said.

Although the proposed minimum registration fee was $25, it was proposed that a fee of only $14 be charged for old single-engine aircraft. The basic fee schedule would provide for registration fees equal to one-tenth of one per cent of the list price of the aircraft in the year of manufacture. After five years the value would be reduced by 25 per cent for fee computation.

In addition to raising the fees, Wolf proposed that dealership licenses be eliminated or the provisions be revised. He said that persons with only one plane who do not sell any planes register as dealers and escape the fee. He proposed that the dealership fee be set higher than the minimum fee for one defray costs. Parents can obtain scholarship information when they get registration information.

Trumpeter to Perform at New London

NEW LONDON — Paul Smoker, instructor of trumpet at Oshkosh State University, will be the featured performer in the Midwinter Guest Concert Feb. 16.

Smoker will play in a "Concerto for Trumpet" and will do a Doc Severensson rendition of "Painted Desert". He has arranged and has conducted the University's Stage Band. With Smoker will be the high school varsity and concert bands.

The guest concert is an annual event, which features a guest artist, who works with the students during the day and then joins them in concert at night.

Tickets will be available from band members or at the senior high school office. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

The concert will start at 8 p.m. in the junior high auditorium.

Sensenbrenner said that municipalities must be given a way to get out but that the group must be protected "because someone could be left holding an expensive bag." He was referring to bonding commitments and other financial obligations.

Subcommittee members include Sensenbrenner, Roger Baird, also committee chairman; H. R. Moore and James Bayorgeon.

The technical subcommittee indicated that a single plant would overtax the Fox River at a single location of discharge. The four-plant system would allow the river to recover lost oxygen between the four discharge points, the report said.

Plants would be at Appleton, Neenah-Menasha and Kaukauna, with the Butte des Morts Utility District plant construction possibly being delayed because immediate requirements are quite small, the report said. It also proposed larger units, especially clarifiers, at the plants to create economies.

Bears Suffer Second Loss

Bonduel Record 9-2 After 65-61 Defeat To Peshtigo Quint

PESHTIGO — Rodger Eklund popped in nine buckets and six free throws for a game total of 24 points in leading the Peshtigo Bulldogs to a 65-61 victory over the Bonduel Bears in non-conference action played here Tuesday night.

The Bulldogs now boast an overall record of 9-2, while the Bears are 9-2 on the season.

At halftime, the Peshtigo quint grabbed a 39-34 lead, as Eklund and teammate Brian Anderson were accurate from the floor. In the third segment, the Bonduel cagers found themselves in foul trouble, and eventually, five players were forced to the bench permanently.

Late in the third quarter, however, Bonduel managed to reduce its deficit to 51-50. Then Eklund sank a charity toss, and the Bulldogs were able to increase their lead once again. Toward the end of the contest, Peshtigo was able to gain control of the boards, enabling them to outlast the Bears.

In addition to Eklund, the Bulldogs were paced by Dan Nesberg, who meshed 12 Anderson chipped in 11.

Jim Foreman led the Bonduel attack as he swished eight buckets and six gifts for a 22-point total. Neil Boettcher totaled 14 and Mike Eisch added 12 for the losers.

Fraudulent Try At Registration Results in Fine

WAUPACA — Four cases were heard in county court branch 2 Monday.

Bruce Soderberg, 18, of 725 Royaltown St., Waupaca, pleaded no contest to the charge of fraudulent application for a vehicle registration. He was fined $82.70 plus $13.70 cost.

Maynard Olson, 36, Strum, Wis., forfeited $50, plus $13.70 cost on the charge of imprudent driving resulting from a personal property damage accident on School Street.

Charles E. Swanson, 21, route 3, Waupaca, forfeited $50 and cost of $13.70, following an accident on Churchill and Evans Street, Jan. 1, when his car struck another vehicle.

On a state charge, Matthew S. Erickson, 18, of 1002 10th St., Waupaca, forfeited $50, plus $12.70, on the charge of off premises possession of beer and his driver's license was restricted to work for 45 days. He was cited by city police, Dec. 21, 4 a.m. on Churchill Street, Waupaca.

WACOG's Programs Will be Discussed

WAUPACA — The Waupaca Area Council of Governments meeting will be 8 p.m. Thursday in council chambers.

It will be a general discussion, meeting and an attempt will be made to program WACOG's program for 1971, according to Chairman Walter Cirua.

Five Aldermanic Positions to Open In New London

NEW LONDON — Five aldermanic positions will be open during the city election April 6.

Those now filled by Gilbert Kroil, first ward; Elmer Hebb, second ward; Walter Fredericks, third ward; Jerome Freiburger, fourth ward; and Richard Genske, fifth ward are coming due.

All terms are two years. To date, Kroil and Freiburger are the only two who have taken out papers for their candidacy.

Papers to file for the position of alderman in any wards are available at the city clerk's office.

Operetta Set by Clintonville High

CLINTONVILLE — The high school chorale department has announced it will present the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Pirates of Penzance".

The operetta will be presented at the junior high school auditorium on March 8 and 9 with curtain time at 8 p.m. The cast has been selected and its names will be released later.

Tolls Eliminated

Telephone Service Extended

NEW LONDON — Residents in the area are getting extended service from the Wisconsin Telephone Company.

Joe Oberlin, manager of the local office, announced that it had eliminated the toll rates between New London and Readfield.

According to Oberlin the crews had successfully tested the equipment, and that it was now in operation. Present figures indicate that residents from New London place about 4,700 calls annually to the Readfield exchange, and that about the same number are made in the opposite direction.

Now to place their calls, residents will no longer have to dial the "11" digit. Only the "usual seven digits are required."

Oberlin estimated that the number of calls between the two cities would increase three to five times, with the toll free service.

The cost of the equipment installed was about $55,000 for new lines and equipment. The area users of the service will realize about $1,500 in annual savings with the new toll free service.

The expansion was made through an agreement with the Readfield Telephone Company and the Wisconsin Telephone Company.

Amherst Rallies For 62-61 Win Over Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — Amherst rallied in the fourth period to outscore Wittenberg-Barnum 26-13 and pulled out a 62-61 victory in a non-conference basketball game Tuesday.

Wittenberg held a 49-36 lead after three quarters of play but Amherst came on strong to boost its season record to 8-2.

Wittenberg now has a 6-4 mark. Paul Swetalla led Amherst with 23 points and Dave Hohnson added 14. For the losers, Harold Mavis had 15, Dale Harlehen hit 13, Mike Kaufman had 11 and Bruce Beversdorf 10.

Company. It is part of a planned $400,000 expansion of the New London and Waupaca telephone services.

Other items included in the service expansion have been, the installation of $12,000 in long-distance equipment in Waupaca, $90,000 for a new cable in Waupaca, and other items to improve the service.

New London had $35,000 worth of equipment, to meet dial growth in the area. Included was an Audichron machine, which now provides "Time of Day" service.

About $240,000 will be spent in the Chain O' Lakes area to provide underground cable for the increasing number of cottages being converted to year-round homes.

New London telephone users number 4,038 in units, and Waupaca has 4,794 units. The residents of New London can now call toll free to Bear Creek, Hortonville and Readfield, as well as committees served by these exchanges.

Interior to Guard Indian School Funds From Misuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal officials for not keeping Indian children got the smallest amount.

—Title I funds, intended under the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act to upgrade educational opportunities for deprived children, were used to "raise teachers' salaries, buy fancy equipment, carpet school administrators' offices."

—John O'Malley funds, set aside exclusively for the use of Indians, were used "in lieu of taxes" to meet general operating costs, the report said, and were combined with general revenues "in almost every district" so that superintendents "could not account for how the money was spent."

One New Mexico official, Grants Municipal District Superintendent M. B. McBride, called the specific accusations against his district "hogwash," and the report "unreliable, unrealistic and untrue."

Interviewer Rosemary Crowe, who had been interviewed on the grounds that he could not defend himself in court, and repeated her accusations of torn, tattered, dated, anti-Indian textbooks.

Dr. Donald Barnhart, South Dakota Superintendent of Public Instruction, said Indian youngsters generally get the short end of education, primarily because Indian and non-Indian children bring different values into the classroom.

He added, as did Oklahoma officials, that he didn't know of any federal Indian money going into other programs in his state. Other states declined immediate comment.

Eau Claire TV Tower Suit To be Dropped

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The Council on Aeronautics decided Tuesday to withdraw intentions of suing Post Corporation of Appleton, owners of an Eau Claire television tower, on the advice of counsel, despite the council's concern about the structure, located in the path of the area airport.

After a study of three or four years, the council decided that the fact that the Federal Aviation Agency and the former has granted aviation authority both to the corporation for construction of another tower, but did not specifically require the removal of the offending structure, pre-vents successful legal action, the council, however went on to record opposing the tower as a "potential hazard" to air traffic.

Fritz Wolf, Aeronautics Division administrator, advised the council that the matter may not be finally ended despite the agency's withdrawal from the issue.

A spokesman for WEAU-TV, the station which owns the tower, said Tuesday a corporation planning to telecast on a UHF channel in Eau Claire was seeking to use the old tower, but the Federal Communications Commission has not granted the new station a permit.

More Airfields Needed To Reduce Traffic at State's Busier Ports

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Green Bay is one of three areas in the state where more than one airport may be needed to serve the metropolitan area, according to the Interim Wisconsin Airport System Plan adopted Tuesday by the Council on Aeronautics.

The plan that classifies all airports in the state and makes specifications for the airports, facilities at each, classifies Green Bay, Milwaukee and Madison as areas where one airport may not be adequate to meet air traffic needs. The plan recommends a metropolitan airport system study to determine the need, number and location of facilities to ease traffic on the main airfields in each of the areas.

The designation, in effect, raises the classification of Green Bay and its Austin Straubel Field above the scheduled air transport airport classification it has held. In addition to the three special metropolitan areas, there are 10 other scheduled air transport facilities cited, including the airports at Marinette-Menominee, Oshkosh and Iron Mountain.

The classification of the Manitowish water airport has been reduced or 10 miles from other general in the plan from the scheduled air traffic classification to the islands with more than 150 general transport classification.

Service Continues

The criteria for the five classes of airports do not indicate there is need for scheduled service at Manitowish, according to Andrew Miller of the aeronautics division. The change in classification does not mean that the state will order North Central Airlines to discontinue service to the Manitowish airport, it was explained. However, a request, by perhaps 1990, for the airline to withdraw the service would be granted.

In connection with Austin Straubel Field, one reliever airport is already listed in Brown County, but after study others may be recommended. The relief service is indicated at Nicolet Airport in the Town of De Pere.

The five classifications, in addition to the designation of the metropolitan area service and state will be planned.

Conradt Authors Bill To Repeal Sales Tax

MADISON (AP) — Four Republican members of the Assembly have introduced a bill to repeal Wisconsin's 4 per cent sales tax.

Principal author was Ervin Conradt, Shiocton, who said he felt the tax was unfair. Joining him were Lawrence Kafka, Denmark; Francis R. Byers, Marion; and Frederick C. Schroeder, West Bend.

Other Assembly bills introduced would place Wisconsin on daylight saving time for the entire year. By Conradt, Byers and Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton.

Federal Funds for State Airport Projects Are Scarce

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The prospect of receiving federal funds for eight Wisconsin airport improvement projects — including work at Green Bay's Austin Straubel Field and airports at Sturgeon Bay and New Holstein — is not encouraging, according to Fritz Wolf, administrator of the aeronautics division of the state Department of Transportation.

Funding also is questionable for the Federal Aviation Administration's consideration of erecting control towers at La Crosse, Waukesha, possibly Appleton and Eau Claire, the council was told.

The FAA has committed itself to taking over operation of the county-owned temporary control tower on March 15 at the far Outagamie Airport in Appleton, concerned," Wolf told the council. Construction of a permanent tower is the financial responsibility of the FAA. No timetable had been set for that construction when the FAA agreed to take over the operating costs of the present tower.

Not Enough Funds

Requests totaling $3.1 million in federal funds for projects that will cost about $6 million have been submitted, the council on aeronautics was told. But the Austin Straubel Field request for $346,500 in federal funds would help meet the cost of concrete overlays on 7,700 feet of the northeast-southwest runway that, according to Joseph Abernathy who compiled the requests, is breaking up badly. The total projected cost for the repairs is $1,633,000 with a total of $125,500 with the state and local funds also involved. Overlays for all the surfaces at the La Crosse Airport are badly needed, Abernathy said. The runways have been in place for 26 years. That request is for $256,800 in federal funds as part of a total cost of runway at Truax Field in Madison of $513,600.

In the general aviation category of airports, the Door County-Cherryland Airport is the replacement, Wolf said. There is the possibility that the west Airlines strike, would be able to provide no service at all. An airport appropriation bill is still in Congress, Wolf said.

"We have had too many near misses at La Crosse," he said, "and we finally killed three people at Waukesha." The deaths occurred as a result of a collision between two planes at the airport. Abernathy said a west Airlines plane would have been able to prevent the collision because personnel would have been in contact with pilots of the two planes.

Moscow Holds Key to Middle East Problems

Egyptians Talk Tough but Can't Act Unless Given Backing of Soviet Union

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Behind President Nixon's sober conviction that Moscow holds the key to peace in the Middle East lies a calculated conclusion by the administration that Egypt will not dare start shooting across the Suez Canal without explicit Soviet approval.

This means that if the cease-fire is not extended by Cairo when it expires on Feb. 5 as President Anwar Sadat now threatens, only Moscow could prevent a terribly dangerous outbreak of war along the canal.

That shows the lamentable lack of influence available to President Nixon in the implacable show-down period that started with resumption of peace talks by United Nations negotiator Gunnar Jarring.

The talks themselves, which took Jarring to Israel this past weekend, cannot possibly satisfy Egypt's public demand for progress in the brief period between now and Feb. 5. Sadat wants proof that Israel by then will have signalled its willingness to withdraw from conquered Arab lands, particularly Egypt's Sinai Peninsula.

Wants Guarantees

No such concession is possible. Before even discussing withdrawals from Arab-occupied territory, Israel will insist on absolute guarantees, such as unrestricted passage through the Straits of Tiran and into the Gulf of Aqaba.

Just how insoluble these problems are can be seen from the backstage American maneuvers to extract ticklish compromises from the hard-line Israelis. Take, for example, Mr. Nixon's Mideast experts are quietly pushing an ingenious plan that would give Israel a physical presence on the heights of Sinai's Sharm El-Sheik, overlooking the Straits of Tiran. This would deny Israel its land-bridge — a new road, now being built from southern Israel to Sharm El-Sheik down the Egyptian Sinai.

Conceivably, Israel might some day accept this unpunished U. S. plan, which would add a small Israeli-Egyptian "liaison team" (protecting Israel's right of passage) to the international inspection force posted at Sharm El-Sheik. Some day, maybe, but not now.

Besides, just one Israeli posted on Egyptian territory will almost certainly be one too many for Cairo. And without some physical presence at Sharm El-Sheik Israel will never start talking withdrawal. The result: deadlock.

Deadlock over Sharm El-Sheik is only one of dozens of Arab-Israeli deadlocks which, despite private indications here that Israel may now be prepared to make certain concessions, show no sign of being resolved. Until they are, discussions of a withdrawal timetable will not begin.

Depends on Moscow

That is where the Soviet Union comes in. As the President sees it, months of brutally hard bargaining will be necessary before these deadlocks begin yielding to compromise — if ever they do. But whether diplomacy enjoys so long a time to work its way depends on Moscow.

Thus, if Sadat — under heavy pressure from militant, patriotic younger officers to expel Israel from the Sinai — decides he cannot extend the cease-fire, an Egyptian attempt to cross the canal is predictable unless the Russians say nyet. Without solid assurance of Soviet backing in any such hazardous military operation against the Israelis, Egypt would not strike in force.

Moreover, Sadat's diplomatic hole-card is the threat of renewed shooting that could well involve not only Egypt and Israel but the U. S. and the Soviet Union. So long as a cease-fire continues, he knows that had been suspended from the pressures will mount on Israel University of Georgia in Athens during a legal dispute over desegregation.

ist party congress in March. Until then, the cease-fire, acknowledged or tacit, seems assured.

That merely delays the flash-point to some time in April.

If, as now seems safely predictable, the dispute is still deadlocked then, Moscow will have to make its choice: opt for restraint by Cairo or risk a war engulfing itself and the U. S.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 1971. There are 352 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1733, James Oglethorpe and some 130 English Colonists arrived at Charleston, S.C. with a charter to establish a settlement in what is now the state of Georgia.

On this date:

In 1419, the English captured the French city of Rouen.

In 1813, in the war of 1812, the British blockaded Chesapeake and Delaware bays.

In 1848, Canada's Vancouver Island was acquired by the Hudson's Bay Company.

In 1915, an earthquake in central Italy killed 30,000 persons.

In 1935, the Saar voted to return to Germany.

In 1953, the Stalin government in the U.S.S.R. accused nine doctors of plotting to kill Communist leaders. It was conceded later that the charge was false.

Ten years ago — A U.S. District Court ordered the reinstatement of two Negroes who had been suspended from the University of Georgia in Athens during a legal dispute over desegregation.

Five years ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson named the first Negro to the Cabinet-Robert C. Weaver to be secretary of the new Department of Housing and Urban Development.

One year ago — An international effort to rush food and medicine to defeated Biafrans was stalled because of a lack of approval from Nigeria.

Retroactive Abortion Urged

NORTHWOOD, N.D. (AP) — One North Dakota weekly newspaper publisher is pushing for a retroactive clause in any law proposing "open" abortion in the state.

Under a heading, "Let's Make It Retroactive," publisher Truman C. Wold of the Northwood Gleaner had this to say:

"This newspaper stands on the proposition that any legislator supporting the legalizing of open abortions should be willing to become a victim of the same human extermination process."

Liberalization of North Dakota's abortion law is expected to be a heated issue during the current legislative session.

State's Crime Fight Fund Control May Be Returned to Governor

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The state agency handling the funds which Wisconsin receives under the Safe Streets and Crime Control Act may be taken out of the hands of Atty. Gen. Robert Warren.

Blake Kellogg, press aide to Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, said Sunday the governor's staff is studying whether to transfer the Wisconsin Council of Criminal Justice from the Republican attorney general's supervision to a position more directly under the governor's office.

Lucey, during the 1970 gubernatorial campaign, had said he thought the council should be more responsible to the governor. Warren has said the council should remain in the Justice Department.

The federal act indicates the council should operate under the governor, but former Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles had placed it in Warren's department.

One Man in USAID Sets Out to Help Vietnamese Fishermen

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Near the Da Nang docks a small group of Vietnamese is helping a Boston architect build a fishing boat of cement and chicken wire. He thinks this stands in stark contrast to "down the drain" projects undertaken by his employer, the Agency for International Development of the U.S. State Department.

The aim here is start a fisheries industry that will help heal the economic wounds of South Vietnam.

"It'll work because the Vietnamese are doing it themselves," said Al Crandon, the 29-year-old Bostonian who brought the art of ferro-cement boat construction to Da Nang. "It's not the usual USAID hand-out program."

"The Vietnamese have to build the boat, they have to catch fish with it and they have to persuade other Vietnamese to invest their money so they can build more boats and catch more fish."

Crandon's dream is a fleet of 100 ferro-cement boats providing $20 million in fish exports annually.

An architectural graduate from Columbia University, Crandon first came to South Vietnam in 1968 as a lieutenant with the Army engineers. Later he switched to the Navy shipyard in Saigon, where he built his first 42-foot ferro-cement trawler.

He left the service in December 1968, but returned to Saigon as a civilian employee of the Ministry of Education, to help set up a boat-building program. "All they were interested in was that 42-footer I had built," said Crandon. "It came with me on the job, and after six months the Vietnamese said 'thanks, you can go now but leave the boat.' Instead I brought the boat up to Da Nang. You could say I sort of stole it."

In the northern military region, Crandon came under the protection of Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, a man with a benign attitude toward anything that makes money. He was interested in the potential of Crandon's fishing plans.

While Crandon wangled $20,000 in funds from the Advanced Research Projects Agency of the U.S. Department of Defense, Lam helped him get a matching sum from the Vietnamese government. The general also provided a sit and ordered the local fisheries chief to send Vietnamese students for training in boat-building and modern fishing methods.

Since July the best students have been constructing a 57-foot trawler, capable of going 100-200 miles offshore and bringing in 10 tons of fish and shrimp every four days.

"That's the trouble with these old, small Vietnamese fishing sampans," said Crandon. "They can't get out where the fish are. The war has ruined all the inshore fishing. One grenade will kill a shrimp bed for 20 years, and a lot of grenades have been thrown in these waters."

The boat will be finished in about two months. Then Crandon plans to spend three months training his students in using the trawler, how to catch fish in the open sea.

"After that it's up to them," he said. "The South China Sea is an incredibly rich fishery. They could easily equal the entire fish catch of Da Nang in that one boat."

"At $10,000 apiece, ferro-cement boats are cheap and easy to build. The Vietnamese can make them without foreign capital or expensive imports. In other words, they won't be open to exploitation. All they need are local investors to buy the chicken wire and cement."

Crandon's star pupil wants to become a fishing magnate. Le Bon, 45, father of four, has formed a corporation with five partners willing to invest about $90,000 in a commercial fishing venture. When Crandon's course is over they will begin building their own boat.

A whole fleet of boats could provide sizable exports and flood the domestic market with fish. This would lower prices and help curb inflation.

Crandon feels his approach is vastly superior to the bigger and more expensive fisheries projects supported by USAID. He is critical of the organization that pays his $1,600 monthly salary.

"USAID could be very effective if you had a small dedicated team trying to help the country," he said. "But instead they've sent a large team of desk-warmers dedicated to writing nonsensical reports and making a fast buck."

"I had to fight to get my program going while they're giving away money for things that'll never work. Their idea of helping the country is to import $250,000 foreign boats and give them to the wrong people, the Saigon politicians.

"They're pouring tax dollars down the drain and making professional refugees of the Vietnamese people. No wonder a lot of Vietnamese already have the attitude: 'If we can get it from the United States why should we do it ourselves?'"

The U.S. mission staff in Vietnam has 1,600 AID employees supervising and providing an annual infusion of $750 million into the country. A large chunk of this is allocated toward "economic stabilization," to lick inflation caused by the American presence in the first place.

One U.S. AID official in Saigon described it this way: "The war has generated a lot of paper money. Something is needed to absorb this spending power. So the United States pays for expensive imports which are then sold to the Vietnamese, who buy them with the money they got from the Americans. The theoretical goal is to make the country self-sustaining."

Crandon feels it's "insane, a panic policy. You can't set up a stable government and economy with panic policies."

Other critics say the program makes South Vietnam a dependent. More than $5 billion in aid has been allotted in the last 10 years but no marked change in the country's trade balance is evident. It imports $700 million worth of goods a year and re-exports $15 million in exchange for exports, mostly from rubber and exports. Exports have dropped drastically since 1966. For example, fish products are down from 44 million to 11 million

Construction Drops At Kimberly for '70

KIMBERLY — A marked decline in construction has been noted in the annual report released by Assistant Building Inspector William Ruff.

Part of the drop, from $1,323,771 in 1969 to $372,600 in 1970, is offset by two municipal projects; amounting to $503,996 in 1969. They are not assessable and it reduces the difference in construction costs to $447,175.

Seven new homes were built at a cost of $129,000 in 1970 compared to 17 costing $331,000 in 1969. Home remodeling projects also declined from 37 costing $49,900 in 1969 to 19 costing $22,300 in 1970. A total of 16 garages costing $18,800 were built last year compared to 21 costing $24,875 in 1969.

Five duplex apartments costing $87,000 were built in 1970 compared to two costing $30,000 in 1969 and one 3-unit apartment building was constructed at a cost of $40,000 in 1970, while no such unit was built in 1969.

The 1970 industrial building lists one warehouse at a cost of $35,000 while in 1969 three industrial buildings were erected at a total cost of $384,000. One new business building, a drive-in restaurant, was con-

Valley School Officials to Hold Meeting

Seven Fox Valley school districts' officials have been invited to a meeting at Kimberly High School Jan. 21 for a discussion of common issues in teacher negotiations.

In a letter to the boards of education, Ray Hamann, Kimberly superintendent, said: "Since many of the same issues are common to all of us, the Kimberly Board of Education felt that a meeting of board members, superintendents and business managers of schools in the area would be beneficial."

He wrote that it would be "helpful in our dealing with teacher associations" and help bring unified agreements.

Subjects for discussion, he suggested, might be salary schedule, teacher agreements, teacher loads, state aid and the Kellett report.

Invited were Appleton, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Kaukauna, Neenah-Menasha and Little Chute. The session will be at 7:30 p.m.

Warren to Support Consumer Education

MADISON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert Warren pledged his personal support Monday of a program to provide consumer education in Wisconsin's elementary and secondary schools.

"Consumer education is vital for all young people because of the complexities of the modern marketplace," Warren said in a letter to Virginia Knauer, special assistant to the President on consumer affairs.

"I pledge my personal cooperation in seeing that this consumer educational program will be implemented in Wisconsin," said Warren, who added that his staff already had begun work on guidelines for the program with the Department of Public Instruction.
